Nazis Renew Attacks on Eastern Front

Russians Claim Attempts To Pierce Moscow Defense Lines Crushed.

MAJOR CITIES BOMBED

London Reports Soviet Troops Evacuated From Kerch To Caucasus.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's high command pictured the German armies as lunging forward once more on the eastern front today, executing "new and successful" attacks, while the Russians declared they had crushed Nazi attempts to pierce Soviet lines north and south of the 200-mile Moscow defense arc.

A Nazi military spokesman said German bombers raked both Moscow and Leningrad during the night and left spreading fires in the Red capital.

A bulletin from the fuehrer's headquarters reported that 10,000 Russian prisoners had been captured and 171 tanks destroyed during the past three days, but it gave no details of the new push.

Soviet front-line dispatches said two German infantry regiments, supported by tanks and armored cars, had been driven off with bloody losses in repeated attempts to storm across the upper Volga river in the Kalinin sector, 95 miles north of Moscow, and the Red army command gave this general summary of the nearly five-months-old struggle:

"Our troops are beating off the enemy attacks and destroying equipment and annihilating the manpower of the Germans."

On the southern (Ukraine) front, the Russians said Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's forces had recaptured a number of villages and advanced from four to 12 miles—presumably in the fiercely-contested battle sector around Rostov-on-Don.

Soviet accounts declared that Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist's southern armies were suffering severe casualties in attempts to make "rapid gains" in the Donets river basin.

In the Crimea campaign, the German high command said Nazi bombers violently attacked Russia's great Black sea naval base

Farmer's Guild Hits AAA Penalty In Session Here

More than 50 farmer delegates from seven midwestern states were to conclude the third annual convention of the National Farmers' Guild in Mansfield this afternoon with a report of the resolutions committee and election of officers.

Sessions opened yesterday in Radio City hall on North Walnut street, and a crowd estimated at 500 persons heard a talk last night by William Lemke, former congressman from North Dakota who is leading the fight for repeal of the 49-cent penalty on wheat under the AAA marketing quotas.

Lemke urged farmers to work for repeal of the marketing quotas and tax as a threat to American democracy. He was scheduled to go to Canton today to file the second suit in the state for an injunction to halt collection of the wheat penalty. The first was filed last week at Marysville, and opponents of the quotas in Richland county said an action will be filed in Mansfield soon.

The North Dakota farm leader also opposed the federal administration's intervention policy and

Japs, U. S. Remain Far From Accord

Washington Considers Terms Unsuitable for Agreement.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The fateful American-Japanese exploratory talks were temporarily held up today as the Japanese envoys awaited new instructions from Tokyo.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The gap between the respective positions of the American and Japanese governments on the Far Eastern situation still remained wide today.

This was learned in authoritative sources in Washington as Secretary of State Hull prepared for the third day of conferences with Japan's two diplomatic trouble-shooters, Saburo Kurusu and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura.

While official sources said it is still too early to predict the probable outcome of the resumed talks, it was ascertained that Hull's lengthy conferences with the two Japanese envoys yesterday disclosed that Tokyo's terms are still far from what this government considers satisfactory as a basis for negotiating an understanding. It is hoped in Washington that Takyo will instruct Kurusu and Nomura to modify their stand, but the hope is a slim one.

There are now understood to be three main points on which the conferees are finding it difficult to bridge the gap between the positions of their respective governments. They are:

1. Withdrawal of Japanese troops from China.
2. Japan's attitude toward the European war.
3. The question of the equality of commercial opportunity for all nations in the Far East.

The first point is proving the most difficult obstacle.

Both Kurusu and Nomura are taking the position that Japan cannot withdraw her forces from China to the extent that this country wishes as a basis for an understanding. They still insist that American aid to China remains the chief stumbling block to a settlement of that problem.

Nomura, in one of his conversations will Hull, is understood to have remarked that the United States found it necessary for many years to maintain marines in a number of the Latin American republics. Hull pointed out the

WANTS TO TALK

Head of Railway Unions Asks For Conference With FDR.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Offering to discuss "the wage matter" with President Roosevelt in connection with the threatened strike of the country's railroads, A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today telegraphed the president asking that steps be taken to avoid a possible stoppage of railroad service.

Whitney's telegram read: "It is imperative that this important group of railway workers (BRT) be given consideration and that steps be taken to avoid if possible a stoppage of railway service.

"I will therefore appreciate an opportunity to discuss the wage matter with you."

He's Getting It In the Neck Today

Here's a scene that will be enacted many times today as Richland county families prepare the traditional turkey dinner for Thanksgiving. The immediate future looks pretty dark for this big bird as five-year-old John Alan McGinty, 166 Vennum avenue, swings a menacing ax over its neck. John apparently doesn't like his task any too well, but the thought of tomorrow's dinner makes it less unpleasant. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McGinty.

MANSFIELD SET TO GIVE THANKS

Church Services Tonight and Family Gatherings Tomorrow Highlight Observance.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

When Mansfielders begin their annual Thanksgiving observance with church services tonight and sit down to their turkey dinners Thursday they will have a special reason for giving thanks.

Their dinners may cost a little more than last year, but the country is still at peace in a war-torn world and the country's soldiers will be having Thanksgiving dinner in camps and not in the front lines.

Mansfield's observance of the traditional American holiday will start with union church services in two of the city's churches at

GETS BRUSH-OFF

Litvinoff Barred From Cairo Passage on British Plane.

TEHERAN, Iran —(AP)— Cold-shouldered by minor British officials who barred him from passage to Cairo on a British overseas airway transport today, Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, and his wife, prepared to take a Russian plane tomorrow.

Although the British minister to Iran profusely apologized for the action of a British overseas airways plane in leaving the Russian diplomat on the airport, Litvinoff called it an insult.

He appeared to have recovered his temper in the afternoon, however, as he boarded the green-camouflaged, machinegun-turreted Soviet plane which had brought him from Kuibyshev. The plane was unable to take off, however, when a 30-mile dust storm limited visibility. Litvinoff and his wife conferred with the pilot and it was decided to try to reach Cairo tomorrow.

Sharpshooter Will Be Present at Mass Thanksgiving Dinners.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — God's Bible school got ready today for a day-long serving of a free Thanksgiving dinner to an anticipated 22,000 guests in shifts of 2,500 with Sergeant Alvin York, World war hero, speaking at each shift.

The Tennessee sharpshooter and Mrs. York will attend this 41st annual dinner at the school with their son, Edward York, 17, a sophomore there.

HOLD TWO IN CAR LOOTINGS

Police Arrest Youths, Quiz Them on Series of Auto Accessory Thefts.

Mansfield police reported today that they had taken into custody for questioning two Mansfield youths suspected of being connected with the wave of auto looting which has swept the city for the past five months.

Scores of tires and wheels and several other auto accessories such as radio aerials, auto mirrors, fog-lights, horns, spot-lights have been taken.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, who believes that the lootings are being done by a Cleveland ring of thieves, said that the two Mansfield youths were picked up for investigation.

Although he said they might be connected with an out-of-town group, Bates said that it is also possible that the youths took accessories to outfit their own autos.

One of the suspects was taken into custody on Park avenue west last night while the other was picked up at his home. Police reported that several auto accessories were found on their cars and at their homes.

Bates said that no charges had been filed against the pair as yet but that he expected such action late today. The police chief has had additional men assigned for detective duty in an effort to run down the series of auto lootings.

PHYSICIAN SHOT

Former Patient Kills Cancer and Plastic Surgeon.

DURHAM, N. C. — (AP) — Dr. Robert Randolph Jones, jr., 39, cancer and plastic surgeon, was shot to death at Duke hospital yesterday by a former patient, who, Coroner R. A. Harlon said, was obsessed with a belief that he had been mistreated in an operation.

The patient, John S. Baldwin, 38, of near Whiteville, N. C., was overpowered by several physicians while he was still firing at Dr. Jones with two pistols.

40 FLEE WHEN SHERIFF HUNTS IMMORAL SHOW

Posse of County Officers Raids Colored Amusement Center; Six Jailed.

FINDS SLOT MACHINES

Prosecutor Quizzed Women, Men Arrested; Plans To File Charges.

Approximately 40 colored and white persons fled from Tillman's park, colored amusement center north of Mansfield, last night when a posse of county officers raided it and later brought four women and two men to county jail. Two slot machines were confiscated.

The posse of officers, headed by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Prosecutor Harold Lutz, brought three colored women, a white woman, and two colored men to the county jail. No charges had been filed today pending completion of an investigation by the sheriff and prosecutor.

The sheriff said the officers went to the park to investigate reports that immoral shows were being presented in the auditorium at the shelter house. There was no show in progress when the authorities arrived, but the two slot machines were found in the hall. The devices were not being operated at the time, Robinson said.

He said 30 or 40 customers, including a number of white persons, fled when the officers entered about 10 p. m. One colored youth who apparently was on duty fled through a back door, Robinson said.

The officers said they found a number of bottles of beer in the ice box but they said they saw none sold while they were in the establishment. The park has a restaurant license but no beer, liquor or night club permit.

The raid was the second on a country club in the past eight days. Deputy sheriffs swooped down on the Mayfair Inn on U. S. Route 30-N eight miles west of the city the night of Nov. 11, confiscated a quantity of gambling devices and arrested George Talbot, 38, who was on duty at the tavern. He is being held on a charge of keeping and exhibiting devices for gain.

Sheriff Robinson said the two raids were in keeping with his policy of "cleaning up unde-

PUT OUT FIRE

Volunteers Extinguish Forest Blaze Near Wildwood.

A forest fire which threatened to sweep through a group of cottages at Wildwood, near the western edge of Mohican State park, was beaten out last night by a group of volunteer firefighters, most of them Mansfield residents, owning cottages there.

Believed to have been started by a hunter, the fire spread over several acres of wooded land between 2 and 10 p. m., when it was finally extinguished.

The fire was discovered by Hugh Bowman, who lives near Wildwood.

The volunteer firefighters raked away dead leaves and brances, dug ditches to prevent the fire's spread and then moved in to beat out the flames. The absence of any strong wind was credited with preventing the fire's rapid spread.

50,000 Ready; Coal Sympathy Strike Widens

President Expected to Withhold Action Until CIO Meet Ends, Gives Congress Go-Ahead Sign on Middle-of-Road Anti-Strike Legislation.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Despite the steady spread of sympathy strikes in the commercial mines and some violence, an authoritative source said today that President Roosevelt probably would withhold executive action in the captive coal mine dispute until after the CIO concludes its national convention in Detroit Friday.

At the same time, however, it was learned that 50,000 troops were being held in readiness to take over the captive mines in the event the present deadlock continues and the president decides that use of the army is necessary to fulfill the restoration of coal production.

However, informed quarters emphasized, there has been no final decision yet to use the army.

Mr. Roosevelt, one authoritative source indicated, was purposely biding his time and giving CIO's striking United Mine Workers ample opportunity to reconsider the adamant position the union has taken to enforce its demand for a union shop in the captive pits which are owned and operated by the big steel companies.

There was a veiled intimation of the president's attitude in the message he sent to the CIO convention yesterday, calling for production of the sinews of defense "without delay and without interruption."

The statement that the president would stay his hand for a few days more found corroboration in authoritative house reports that congress had received a quiet go-ahead signal for middle-of-the-road legislation to deal with defense strikes, but with the understanding that action would be deferred for a week or so.

Highly placed legislators said that the question probably would not come up in the house until CIO's Detroit convention had ended and until the captive coal mine strike had been settled.

Nevertheless, John L. Lewis apparently believed that there was a possibility of quicker White House action. The UMW president, instead of leaving for the Detroit convention, remained in the capital to deal personally with any sudden developments.

As the suspense intensified, the coal strike front presented this general picture:

Captive mines — Most of them have closed down, but a few continued to operate with curtailed working forces.

Commercial mines—The total of these mines tied up by sympathy walkouts in Pennsylvania has reached 30. Some 6,000 miners in 32 of Kentucky's commercial mines were ordered to quit work today in another ser-

SET TO APPROVE MEDIATION PLAN

BULLETIN

DETROIT —(INS)— Without a dissenting voice, the national CIO convention today adopted a proposal favoring mediation of labor disputes but at the same time approved the action of CIO President Philip Murray resigning from the national defense mediation board.

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—The national CIO convention in Detroit today planned to endorse a broad policy for mediation of labor disputes even while John L. Lewis fought "union shop" demands by a paralyzing strike in the company-owned coal mines of big steel corporations.

This was the second paradox to be thrust before the 495 delegates gathered at Detroit for what appeared to be a convention which debated not so much the issue at hand but the question of whether Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers union, would make a sudden dramatic appearance.

The convention yesterday adopted a resolution commending President Roosevelt's foreign policies and calling for all-out aid to Britain and Russia despite Lewis' bolt from Mr. Roosevelt in the 1940 election campaign.

The vote for the president was overwhelming. It was estimated that 462 of the delegates gave the nation's chief executive a rising vote of confidence, while

JOE LOSES

Ordered By Court to Turn Over Pension Mailing Funds.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—In an unanimous decision, the Ohio supreme court today ordered State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to turn over to the division of aid for aged $75,000 in postage funds for mailing old age pension checks.

The court's decision ended a fight between Ferguson and Tom McCaw, chief for the aid for aged division, over handling of pension checks. When the legislature gave McCaw authority to mail the checks, it neglected specifically to appropriate postage money.

McCaw then obtained an order from the control board transferring money from Ferguson's postage account to the division's. Ferguson sued to upset the transfer on the ground the board lacked authority to make it.

Hail Fighting Days' Return In British Command Shake-Up

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The sudden British high command shake-up which removed Gen. Sir John G. Dill as chief of the imperial general staff, replacing him with Gen. Sir Alan Francis Brooke, won the approval of virtually the entire British press today.

Possibly indicating a forthcoming British offensive action on a new front, the shake-up replaced Gen. Dill by an expert and proponent of tank warfare in the person of Gen. Brooke.

The war office communique said Gen. Dill will relinquish his job on Christmas day, when he will reach the age of 60, permitting his retirement from active service.

Promotion of Gen. Brooke to the highest position in the army, was hailed by one paper as a sign that "fighting days have come again." Another, the London News Chronicle, said that the "whole shake-up inspires confidence."

The Daily Telegraph commented:

"The government has shown its determination the army shall be led by fresh minds and the most talented men."

Gen. Brooke, who was promoted from the post of commander-in-chief of the home forces, will direct any action Britain might take on the European continent or elsewhere overseas as well as purely defensive activities. He recently remarked that "it's about time" to strike back at Germany.

Red Cross Receives $4,899 In Cash, 3,682 Memberships

Richland county's Red Cross Roll Call total stood at 3,682 today as workers' reports since yesterday showed a gain of 690 in membership and an increase of $941.95 in cash contributions.

More than 40 Mansfield firms and organizations had reported 100 per cent memberships today and cash contributions had reached a total of $4,899.64.

Working to enroll two members for every one enrolled last year the 650 volunteer Red Cross Roll Call workers scattered throughout the county are reporting success along this line, L. W. Birch, county Roll Call chairman, said today.

Membership the first week in the drive was doubled over that for the corresponding period of Roll Call last year and indications point to success in achieving the county quota of 22,000 members set by national headquarters as an emergency quota this year.

The first week in the drive ended yesterday with a total of 2,993 members and cash contributions amounting to $3,952.69.

Workers are required to report daily at Roll Call headquarters in Room 608, Farmers Bank building, where Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary, and Mrs. Beatrice Balyeat will be on duty from 9 a. m., to 5 p. m., through Nov. 30, when the drive ends.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®
NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

GEN. JOHNSON:

WASHINGTON—It is a true and a very unfortunate thing that the strikes in the captive coal mines now spreading to the free mines appear, according to your point of view, like strikes against the government and against national defense. In this appearance, it seems O. K. to send in the army to "take over" and operate the mines and end the strikes by force—air planes overhead and tanks and artillery and infantry marching underfoot.

Johnson

It is a first principle of the use of troops in civil disturbance that you can't do this unless you are willing to go all the way through with it—and more—to use that force to accomplish every purpose you threaten.

This raises a very ticklish problem. For there is another point of view. These miners and their families have been engaged in this fight for the complete closed shop for generations. They started with nothing. They never did have much. They have very little now. They think they were promised what they ask for now by the Appalachian agreement. They are not going to give up easily.

What then? Are they to be shot down? It would be a sorry day. The information in Washington is that it is the intention on the part of the army—so far as the situation can be controlled—to move in very slowly, to omit the tanks and more terrible mankillers and not, at first at least, with the idea of "taking over and operating the mines," but of keeping order, preventing forcible picketing, and preserving the peace. It is the rumor also, (but both these rumors may be untrue) that it is not the intention of the miners to resort to force, but to rely on their belief that 80 per cent to 90 per cent of the men belong to the U. M. W. A., to move in peaceably, and operate merely because they have the men on the job.

We should fervently pray that both these rumors are true. Widespread bloodshed over this issue would give more aid and comfort to Hitler than any thing else imaginable.

Even if these are the very sensible plans, the danger is hotheaded and inexperienced leadership on both sides—especially on the army side. When the army took over North American aviation it used the veteran 15th regular infantry, just back from China with soldiers in the ranks who had done strike duty, a veteran is slow to shoot. Give a half-trained selectee a rifle and bullets to put in it, and he is pretty apt to think it is in his hands for just one purpose—to shoot.

Also there has been so much resentment of soldiers among selectees about men who were exempted and then struck, and so have neither "worked nor fought," that it may become one of those foolish, headless causes for popping off a gun. You don't have to pop off many in a situation seething with riot to spill the fat in the fire.

To make a long story short, it is absurd to talk about moving army officers and men in to "take over and operate" coal mines. It is absurd and silly for all the reasons given here and a lot more besides. Coal mining is not just a craft. It is a way of life, and seems to be handed down from father to son to an extent that sometimes induces a mining family to live around a pit-mouth long after there is a chance to earn a living there.

Your miner is your greatest individualist—even more so than your farmer. I hope that we can keep all these principles in mind in settling this acute and dangerous problem and not jump too quickly to conclusions on either one side or the other.

DROP PLANS FOR 100 PER CENT PARITY LOANS

House Committee Members Will Ask Extension of 85 Per Cent Level.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The house agriculture committee, complying with the wishes of Secretary Wickard, has abandoned demands for price-pegging farm loans at 100 per cent of parity and will ask for a three-year extension of the present 85 per cent level.

Chairman Fulmer (D.-SC.) and other committeemen said today that the new proposal would contemplate loans at the basic 85 per cent rate, provided cash farm subsidies continued to make up the other 15 per cent of parity.

(Full parity would give farm products the same purchasing power, in terms of non-farm goods that they had in certain previous years, in most cases 1909-14.)

Any reduction in congressional appropriations for such items as parity payments and soil conservation benefits, however, would boost the loan rate an equivalent amount.

The legislation, to be placed before the house shortly, would continue for five years from Dec. 31 to the agricultural adjustment administration and its authority to make benefit payments which have averaged $500,000,000 annually; and it would continue the present loan program into the 1942, 1943 and 1944 marketing years.

The committee originally approved the present loan program extension but reversed itself the next day and decided on the 100 per cent loans. A short time later Secretary Wickard said that he opposed that level.

Looking toward the future, Wickard yesterday announced the establishment of a nationwide committee of farmers and agriculture department officials to help forestall a depression in the "post-war period."

He said his department did not share the "pessimism" of those who were resigned to an economic slump at the conclusion of the present hostilities. Wickard declared he did not believe it necessary for the country ever to "go through a major depression again."

To this end, he proposed that the nation prepare a post-war program of conservation of national resources, that services for rural people, such as housing, electrification, education and market facilities, be enlarged; that industry be decentralized, industrial output and employment be kept at high levels and that steps be taken to assure America of its share of foreign and domestic markets.

TOLL BRIDGE PROFIT RISES

Four State Owned Spans In Ohio Earn $521,000 In Nine Months.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Net profit from operation of four state-owned bridges totaled $521,358 for the first nine months of this year, an increase of $213,151 over the corresponding period of 1940, the Ohio Bridge commission reported today.

"Most of this gain is due to a decrease of $172,221 in non-operating expenses due to the refunding of bonds in 1940 on the Sandusky Bay bridge, East Liverpool-Chester bridge, Fort Steuben bridge and a reduction of interest charges on bonds," the commission report said.

The Pomeroy-Mason bridge across the Ohio river is the fourth state-operated span.

Operating expenses of the four bridges were down $9,899 for the nine months despite a maintenance program "that anticipated repair and maintenance needs for several years ahead to escape higher maintenance costs next year and in 1943, and also to obtain materials before they were shut off by defense priorities," the commission asserted.

The report showed an aggregate increase of $36,137 in operating revenue for the nine-month period and a $46,036 jump in gross operating profit.

Individual net profit for the first nine months of 1941, compared to the corresponding 1940 period, at the four bridges follows: Sandusky Bay, $191,406 and $132,363; Fort Steuben, $169,605 and $98,466; Pomeroy-Mason, $12,725 and $3,197; East Liverpool-Chester, $147,622 and $74,178.

CITY HEALTH CHIEF REPORTS NEW FEVER, DIPHTHERIA CASES

Reporting new cases of undulant fever and diphtheria, Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, repeated his warning today that residents drink only "safe and sanitary" milk.

Wild said that the area's eighth diphtheria case and sixth undulant fever case for the month had been reported to health department workers late yesterday.

Following the recording of seven diphtheria cases within a ten-day period, Wild earlier in the week requested parents to have their children immunized from the disease.

There have been five previous reports on undulant fever this month. Wild said that although four of the cases have been transmitted through unsanitary and possibly "bootleg" milk, the latest case was the second in which the disease had been contracted by a farmer from his own cow which had been infected with Bang's disease.

The health commissioner also stated that he wished to correct some "misunderstanding" about his claims that "bootleg" milk salesmen might spread disease through the city.

He pointed out that a "milk bootlegger" was only the man who violates city ordinances by bringing his milk into the city and selling it without the required permit with the sanitary inspections the permit requires.

Farmers throughout the county, who wish to sell their milk to city residents who drive out in the country cannot be considered "bootleggers," Wild states.

He advised residents who made a practice of purchasing milk from outside the city however, to ask that farmers give "definite proof of the sanitary quality of their cream and milk products."

"There is no reason why this proof cannot be furnished," said Wild, "as the laboratory facilities of this department are available at all times to the farmer and he can have his milk and cream tested at any time simply for the asking. There is, of course, no charge for this service. Such a farmer who has his cream and milk tested is no "bootlegger."

6 Filipinos Reported Drowned, Navy Saves 6.

MANILA — (INS) — Six Filipino sailors were believed lost today when the sailing launch Delpidio struck a mine at the entrance to Manila bay and sank.

U. S. navy patrol vessels rescued six crewmen from the waters of the bay. The survivors said that 12 men were aboard the ship when it hit the mine and was blown apart.

Naval authorities immediately began an investigation. They said that the accident occurred at 11:32 a. m. in an area which shipping had been expressly warned to avoid.

TWO ATTEMPT TO BAIL OUT NEAR DAYTON

Army Craft Crashes In Field at North Hampton, Training Ship Hits Air Pocket.

(By United Press)

DAYTON — Four army flyers were killed yesterday in experimental flights from Patterson and Wright fields.

Three men died in the crash of a B-24 twin-engined medium Martin bomber near North Hampton, and one died from injuries received when an army training glider from Wright field crashed at Patterson field.

The dead were identified as:

First Lieut. Thomas P. Bacon, Radford, Va.

Second Lieut. James P. Lynch, West Haven, Conn.

Second Lieut. C. L. Luke, Mineola, N. Y.

Staff Sgt. E. E. Johnson, Jackson, Miss.

Bacon, Lynch and Johnson were killed in the bomber crash. They were members of the 71st bombardment squadron stationed at Jackson air base, Jackson, Miss. They had been stationed at Patterson field for several days where the plane had been undergoing "accelerated service" tests.

Luke, an authority on gliders, died of a fractured skull and multiple fractures received when the glider in which he and Lieut. Floyd J. Sweet were flying plunged to earth after apparently striking an air pocket. The glider crash was the first at Dayton air fields since the army began extensive glider training a few months ago.

E. C. Davis, farmer who lived near the scene of the bomber crash, said the plane's wings "started to wobble" a few moments before the crash. The plane was said to have "straightened out" and continued for a half mile before it went into a spin and fell to earth.

The ship exploded and caught fire as it hit the ground.

Witnesses said that two of the crew attempted to bail out from an altitude of approximately 1,000 feet. The body of one of the flyers was found with his parachute partially opened.

Two of the bodies were thrown clear of the wreckage, one directly beside the ship and the other about 25 feet away. The men were burned beyond recognition.

Announcements of births, weddings, parties, and other such events have been causing Mansfield postal authorities no end of embarrassment. It seems that persons sending these little reminders are forgetting to place the correct amount of postage on their announcements. The post office dislikes to deliver them with postage due, and it can't afford to pay the other cent due on the most of them. Shops selling these cards have been asked to remind their customers that they are all first class mail and consequently require two cents, not one and one-half if mailed to addresses within the city.

An old pink program remindful of village gatherings in a day long since past found its way to Mansfield this week from Buffalo, where a former local resident, Horace Reed, recently discovered it among some family possessions. The program, composed in a style that antedated by many years its announcement of a "Greatte Concertte to be givenne by Ye Olde Folks," had been printed by The Daily News for a musicale at the Congregational church, May 5, 1886. It instructed the audience to "bring candelles and tune books and slippery elm for ye voice," and added that "Ye singers will take a rest to regaine their breths and talk with their nabors. "It is quite likely that the former resident attended the musicale, according to John Cook, vice president of the H. L. Reed company, who received the program.

Fifth and sixth grade pupils of Newman school English classes celebrated National Art week, this week, in their own way. They composed word pictures in poetry about the things they see every day and most of these pieces conveyed landscape ideas. One student wrote about the pigeons around the reformatory tower and another about the swan in North Lake park while still others chose traffic lights, baseball and the rain for their subjects. Miss Meltha Carter, Newman school English teacher, originated the poetry observance "to promote the artistic medium by which the children might express their finer selves."

TOLD OF DEATH

Friends Learn of Demise of Adelaide Brinkerhoff Lewis.

Friends here learned today of the death yesterday in Bayamon, Puerto Rico, of Mrs. Adelaide Brinkerhoff Lewis, 86, a native of Mansfield.

Born Oct. 21, 1855, she was the daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Roeliff Brinkerhoff. After spending the greater part of her life in Mansfield she moved to Puerto Rico 20 years ago and took up residence in a grapefruit and pineapple plantation she owned there. She returned to Mansfield on frequent occasions.

Death came yesterday following a brief illness at her plantation home.

Following services tomorrow in her home the body will be taken to San Juan for temporary burial. Later it will be returned to Mansfield for burial in the family lot at Mansfield cemetery.

RETIRED TAILOR AT GALION DIES

GALION—A retired tailor, George Koch, 82, died at his home here early today following an illness of the past year.

Born May 20, 1859 in Germany, he lived in the United States for the past 62 years. He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church and the Catholic Knights of Ohio.

Survivers include three sons, Carl, of Galion, Clements of Meadville, Pa., Otto of Crestline, three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m., Saturday at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Rev. A. H. Schreiner will officiate. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

PLANE MISSING

Mountains Shroud Fate of Bomber Missing Since Monday.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(INS)—The Sandia mountain region of central New Mexico today shrouded the fate of an army A-17 attack bomber missing since Monday morning with two fliers aboard.

Other bombers at the Albuquerque air base stood ready to resume a search for the missing plane, which left the base with Lieut. Seldon T. Miller of Bellevue, Tex., and Staff Sgt. Howard L. Edwards of Albuquerque aboard.

It's Hardly News But That Manville Man's Weds Again

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Tommy Manville, the asbestos heir, planned a Florida honeymoon today with his fifth bride, honey-haired showgirl Bonita Francine Edwards, whom he met last Sunday night as a blind date.

The new Mrs. Manville, 22, a member of the cast of George Jessel's "High Kickers," met Manville, who gave his age on the marriage license as 47, at the Hurricane night club. She had been escorted there by Jack Eigen, radio commentator, who had been asked by Manville to bring "an extra girl."

After judging a beauty contest for blonds, for whom he has shown strong preference, Manville announced at once that he would marry Miss Edwards. Friends regarded it as just another engagement in a series since his fourth wife, Marcelle Edwards, another showgirl but no relative of Bonita's, divorced him in 1937.

Yesterday, Manville and his bride drove to Ridgefield, Conn., and were married by Justice of the Peace John J. O'Brien. Probate Judge Joseph H. Donnelly waived Connecticut's three-day waiting period and blood test laws.

DENIES FIELD

Madison Board Votes Against Sunday, Gridiron Rental.

Madison township board of education members last night turned down a request by Fred Rizzo, manager of the City News semi-pro football team, for use of the Madison field for a game Sunday afternoon with the Galion Jaycees.

Meeting in Madison high school, the board decided that it would be willing to allow the use of its field for games on week nights, but not for Sunday.

Other board actions announced today by Olan LaRue, township school superintendent, were the granting of permission to purchase paper supplies for 1942 at once, the authorization of exit door construction at the New Washington and White Hall grade schools and the appropriation of $75 for the purchase of maps for class rooms.

LaRue said the paper purchase was authorized because of a growing scarcity due to the national defense effort. The doors were ordered after a state board had ruled that they were necessary for safety purposes.

50,000 TROOPS AWAIT ORDERS FROM PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Expected To Hold Off Action In Mine Strike Till Friday.

ies of sympathy demonstrations, and there was a possibility they might be joined by 8,200 from 25 other pits in the state. In West Virginia the union prediction was that all the 550 mines in that state, employing 105,000, would be closed within 48 hours. Already 5,500 West Virginia miners have quit the shafts in sympathy strikes.

(The commercial mines have a union shop provision in their contract with UMW—an arrangement under which all miners must join the union after a probationary employment period. The commercials employ more than 330,000 men, as compared with the 54,000 in the captive pits where UMW is seeking the same union shop clause in its contract. The captive mines are so called because they are owned by steel companies which use their output instead of marketing it commercially.)

Violence — Two hundred state troopers were ordered into Gary, W. Va., after two men were wounded at one captive mine which was continuing operations. Independent union members there appealed to President Roosevelt for protection so they could keep working. Sporadic clashes between pickets and non-strikers were reported in western Pennsylvania.

Steel production—Lack of fuel forced the closing of the third furnace in the Alabama district. At Pittsburgh, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation announced that because of the impending coal shortages "it probably will be necessary to stop operations of six blast furnaces," by tomorrow, thereby reducing ingot production by about 10 per cent. Most steel mills continued operating but further curtailment was considered inevitable, because some have only a few days' supply of coke on hand. The top estimate of any one mill's reserves was a 28-day fuel supply.

The continued coal production stoppage brought a display of irritation from a draft board in Lee county Florida. Its members telegraphed President Roosevelt that they would sign no more induction papers for selectees "as long as John L. Lewis dictates the labor policy of the United States government and deprives these $21-a-month soldiers of the full benefit of industrial production."

Wendell L. Willkie, speaking in New York last night, also took the administration to task. He charged it with inconsistency in the coal dispute and with failure to announce a clear and open policy for labor. Willkie recommended that labor be given a share in the responsibility and policy-making of the government.

Against this background, the house labor committee convened today to begin consideration of legislation designed to combat defense strikes.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday, pointedly challenged the validity of one of the two reasons which John L. Lewis officially advanced as justification for the captive mine strike call.

He took issue with the UMW chief's assertion that if the union agreed to an open shop in the captive mines, it would cancel the existing UMW contract with the commercial mines on the Appalachian area by giving the captives preferential terms.

Lewis retorted at once, declaring:

"Obviously, the open shop provision of the contract must be esteemed by the steel companies as a more favorable condition, otherwise they would not fight and disturb the tranquility of the nation by insisting upon the deletion of the union shop clause from the Appalachian agreement.

"Any suggestion that the mine workers should dishonor their own agreement by giving the great steel companies more favored conditions than other companies cannot be seriously considered. The mine workers have a record of 50 years of punctilious observance of all contractual obligations. They cannot now depart from that policy."

Besides the captive coal dispute, President Roosevelt had the threat of another big strike on his hands—the railroad workers walkout, scheduled for Dec. 7.

The president conferred with representatives of the railroads and workers at the White House yesterday without reaching any conclusions, and the conferees were called back today for another session.

The 350,000 members of five operating brotherhoods set their strike date after rejecting a proposed 7½ per cent increase proposed by the president's fact-finding board. They demand a 30 per cent increase. The lowest paid now gets $5.06 a day. In addition there are 900,000 non-operating workers who have said they would walk out but have not set a date.

In another development at the capital, the defense mediation board attempted to settle a dispute in the midwestern trucking industry which had brought the threat of a strike of 250,000 AFL truck drivers. The labor department certified the case to the board yesterday. In seeking a new contract, the drivers demanded that their mileage pay be hiked from 3 cents to 5 cents, and that the rate for pickup and delivery work be increased from 80 cents to $1 an hour.

MANSFIELD SET TO GIVE THANKS

Church Services Tonight and Family Gatherings Tomorrow Highlight Observance.

7:30 p. m. today. Members of the Baptist, St. Matthew's Lutheran and Central Methodist congregations will attend special services in the Central Methodist church. Rev. R. L. Foulke, pastor of the latter church, will speak.

Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will give the Thanksgiving sermon at union services at the same time Wednesday in the St. Luke's Lutheran church.

At 8 p. m. today, Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the First Congregational church, will be the speaker at union services for downtown Protestant churches in the Grace Episcopal church.

Business, school and professional activities in Mansfield will be at a standstill tomorrow as the city unites in observing the Day of Thanks that had its origin with the Pilgrims.

For those making holiday trips, the weatherman today said motoring tomorrow won't be in ideal weather. It will be cloudy with mild temperatures and with showers and possibly thunderstorms causing a drop in the mercury by night.

Like the Pilgrims, Richland county farmers have harvested bumper crops this year, giving them another big reason for being thankful.

Mansfield and Richland county schools closed this afternoon for the annual Thanksgiving holiday and pupils will not return to classes until next Monday morning.

All public offices, banks, stores and business establishments except restaurants and filling stations will be closed Thursday to permit employes to have dinner and enjoy the day at home.

After dinner, there will be a football game to attend in Mansfield. Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers will meet the Fremont team at 2:30 p. m. at Stadium field. The game will close the season for the undefeated Mansfield team.

Thanksgiving will be a special day for the inmates at the Mansfield reformatory and the Richland county jail. Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of the reformatory said the holiday dinner there will include chicken, dressing, candied sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes, peas, celery, rolls, pumpkin pie, and coffee. All of the meal except the coffee will be prepared from products grown on the reformatory farm.

There will be no work tomorrow for reformatory inmates. They will attend holiday services in the chapel in the afternoon. The program will include vaudeville acts by inmates and music by the reformatory band.

Chicken will head the Thanksgiving dinner menu at the county jail, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said. Prisoners also will eat noodles, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie and the other holiday fixins'.

The Thanksgiving dinner, from turkeys down to spices, will cost more this year than at any holiday season in the past 10 years. Turkeys are about 20 per cent higher in most city markets while chickens, ducks and geese are from five to seven per cent higher than last year. Lard is 67 per cent above last year's prices.

SET TO APPROVE MEDIATION PLAN

only 33 of them, mostly members of the United Mine Workers and the Construction Organizers Workers, remained seated.

Earlier, however, a resolution pledging "unqualified support" to the strike called by Lewis in the company-owned mines of "big steel" provided the first study in contrasts for the delegates. It virtually placed the convention in the position of calling for aid to Britain and Russia through an all-out defense program but yet approving a strike that threatened to interfere with the national defense program.

Meanwhile, the committee on officers reports, circumventing the resolutions' committee, had prepared the proposal for mediation of labor difficulties.

No specific plan was drawn up but the CIO executive council headed by Phil Murray, president of the organization, was instructed to work out specific details. The system will be modeled after Murray's own suggestion that industry-wide councils of both management and labor be set up during the national emergency to iron out industrial conflicts. This was the second paradox.

The resolutions committee is headed by Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the miners union, and includes as a member Miss Kathryn Lewis, a daughter of John L. Lewis. It was because of fears the proposal might be side-tracked by the resolutions' committee that the committee on officers reports made the recommendation according to informed labor circles

Kennedy's resolution's group was reported to be split badly over a resolution proposed by A. D. Lewis, head of the Construction Workers Organizing committee and a brother of John L. Lewis. "A. D.'s" resolution called for ouster of OPM Labor Chieftain Sidney Hillman, a CIO leader, because of the now-famous Currier Lumber case in Detroit.

asked that the United States keep its army and navy at home.

In an attack upon the AAA farm program, Oscar B. Smith, executive vice president of the Indiana Marketing Quota Protest association, said last night that it was the large wheat operators who voted the quotas last May while the small grower was discriminated against because he was not permitted to vote.

He charged that AAA officials were so certain the quotas would be voted that the quota cards were printed three months before the referendum on the quotas and penalty

Delegates from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, and Pennsylvania were in the city for the convention.

With members in all the midwestern states, the Guild advocates, among other things, providing and protecting home markets for American farmers, restoration to congress the power to coin and regulate the value of money, taxation based on ability to pay, and abolishing the issuance of tax-exempt government bonds.

The two men taken into custody last night told officers they lived at the park. The white woman, 37, gave her address as Cleveland, two colored girls said they lived in Toledo, and the third listed a Mansfield address.

Three of the four women have police records in Cleveland and Toledo, authorities said. One of the colored girls is an 18-year-old sophomore at Toledo university, she told Prosecutor Lutz.

Sheriff Robinson said the building at the park contains an auditorium and stage, a living room, three bedrooms, and a kitchen. The park has been operated in recent years as Sunset park, Tillman's park, and the Goodwill club. Its restaurant license was issued to the Goodwill club.

The prosecutor said a charge of presenting an indecent show may be filed against the six defendants in the county jail, while two men, apparently the operators, may be accused of exhibiting gambling devices for gain.

Participating in the raid with Sheriff Robinson and Prosecutor Lutz were Deputy Sheriffs J. R. Hetler and John Whitcomb and Assistant Prosecutor Charles Freehafer.

Washington Considers Tokyo Terms Unsatisfactory Agreement Basis.

American government had found that policy a failure, and has since withdrawn all its marines from Latin America.

Nomura, however, expressed the belief that the marines were kept in the Latin American republics until the situation was "stabilized" from the American point of view. He intimated that Japan wishes to maintain its armed forces in China only long enough to "stabilize" the situation there. Complete withdrawal at this time, he told Hull, would lead to chaos and a Chinese civil war.

On the question of trade in the Orient, Hull is understood to have told the Nippon envoy that the United States insists on equality of commercial opportunity throughout the Far East. The Japanese have indicated that they are prepared to accept that principle for the southwest Pacific, but have said the Nippon empire feels it has special rights in China, especially in Manchukuo.

Hull also is insistent that Japan, if it wishes to maintain friendly relations with the United States, must avoid aiding what this country regards as Hitler's world movement of conquest. On this point, which involves the question of Japan's alliance with the Axis, the Tokyo representatives are still vague.

The British radio said Russian troops in the Kerch sector had been "safely evacuated to the Caucasus, along with their complete equipment and war material."

Officially, Russia has not yet recognized the German claim to the capture of Kerch, but Moscow radio acknowledged that Axis invasion forces estimated at 90,000 troops had cracked Kerch's defenses "at a cost of colossal losses."

Meanwhile, authoritative London quarters briefly and cryptically disclosed that Britain was taking "military and naval action" against Finland, Rumania and Hungary.

These quarters refused to elaborate, however, and informed sources interpreted the statement as referring mainly to British blockade of the countries.

Possibly forecasting a major offensive move, the war office in London announced a shakeup of the imperial general staff in which the trend of the changes was to put younger officials in key positions.

With Japan tensely awaiting the result of talks in Washington between special Envoy Saburo Kurusu and United States officials, another border outbreak was reported from Manchukuo.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said one Russian soldier was killed and two were captured in a clash of Manchukuo frontier guards with a Soviet detachment which allegedly crossed the border Sunday about 24 miles west of Manchuli.

Flip the ignition switch, press the starter treadle, ease in the quiet gears.

Feel better? You bet! Know it or not, your chin's higher already, just picturing yourself traveling into tomorrow in this rugged Buick.

And if it's a long road ahead, who cares? That's a more efficient valve-in-head under your bonnet, isn't it?—and with Compound Carburetion† to guarantee top power and top range!

Or suppose the going does get rough—haven't you all-coil springs to float you gently through bad going, and new, broad-rim wheels to ease and steady the ride?

What matter if this car should have to do you two or three times as long as usual—it can take it, and keep on delivering, in that smooth, easy, heads-up fashion you go for now in such a big way.

Fact is, Buick's trim looks are only the outward dress of brawn that's the match for as many years as you want to name.

Things like husky frames, torque-tube drive, extra-strength connecting rods, oil-cushioned bearings that go twice as long under equal loads—such things mean you're all set for tomorrow and tomorrow, ad infinitum.

So head now for your Buick dealer and a Buick try-out. It's "first come, first served," and you wouldn't want to miss out getting yours, now would you?

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1941.

Speaking of unions—don't forget the USA.

That 25 per cent cut in Atlantic shipping insurance rates tells something about the growing effectiveness of American-British co-operation.

A Nazi announcer says: "The German navy will go down in history"—but Great Britain may contend that the sentence should end with "down."

Christmas Club Money Soon

OBSERVANCE of National Prosperity week, which begins December 1, should be aided greatly by the distribution of Christmas club money. The total is about 10 per cent higher than last year. Approximately $400,000,000 will be divided among 8,000,000 Christmas club members by 5,000 banks and savings institutions.

That would have been considered a tidy sum before money in the billions became a matter of familiarity and daily conversation—though not necessarily comprehended. As things are, it is still a big enough sum to make the holidays more enjoyable for many people.

Past surveys of leading Christmas clubs indicate in a general way how the money will be used. About a third of it will be spent for Christmas purchases. A little less than one-fourth will go into permanent savings, including defense bonds. Year-end bills, insurance premiums, taxes, education, travel, charity, mortgage interest and miscellaneous items follow in that order.

The psychology of the Christmas club is one of its best features. Money could be saved in other ways for the same purposes, but it would hardly give its possessor that same feeling of freedom and richness.

Substitute Sleep for Food

EVERYONE knows that people are weakened by privation but many may not realize that sleep is, to some extent, a substitute for food. A dispatch from Vichy says that hungry Frenchmen are sleeping two hours longer each night than they would normally. The extra hours are needed because they are so ill-fed, and compensate for about one-tenth of their normal ration.

It would be interesting, but also depressing, to have a scientific report of the loss in efficiency suffered in the other European countries from lack of food, as a result of German aggression. The French decline, according to a doctors' survey, comes from getting so little meat, sugar, coffee, tea, wine and tobacco. Manual laborers are the chief victims of undernourishment, then children and sufferers from tuberculosis. But office workers and people subject to depression, and those with delicate lungs, all feel keenly the effects of "hidden hunger."

It is worse than that over most of Europe now, and hunger spreads and health sinks with every new Nazi conquest.

Era of Dictators Predicted

WE ARE WITNESSING the deflation of the human person," says Anne O'Hare McCormick of the New York Times in a public address. "We are going through a convulsion unique in the world's chronicle. Whatever happens, the leaders will soon loom larger in history than Napoleon, Caesar, Alexander and Tamerlane."

This trend seems to have been foreseen by the poet Tennyson nearly three generations ago when he wrote that "the individual withers and the world is more and more." But could he have imagined such domination as is exercised today over vast masses of people by men like Hitler and Stalin?

Can it be that this vast distance between leaders and followers is to be the rule from now on? That a few strong men, or merely one or two, are to rule the world, with the vast resources of modern science and technology at their command and everybody else pliant tools in their hands?

It is pleasanter to believe in a future world of free individuals. But men may have to struggle more than ever before to hold their freedom.

Smoothing the Road To Learning

THERE are strange doings in the realm of education. At least they seem strange to middle-aged people who got their schooling before the days of the great scholastic revolution.

The Kansas City public school system, for example, has kicked "formal grammar" out of the window. "English is the most disliked subject in school today," explains the educational director, J. G. Bryan. So he has decided to popularize the language by streamlining it. The grammar, and other school books based on it, are dropped from the first two high school years, to be replaced by movies, magazines, newspapers, radio and modern novels.

Concessions are made to old-fashioned students who plan to continue their education in college, and thus need some kind of scholastic hook-up. But the big idea introduced is to eliminate "the dull and boresome subjects of grammar and the classics."

As a result, Mr. Bryan explains, "we probably shall develop students with poorer knowledge of grammar but greater proficiency in its use."—whatever that means.

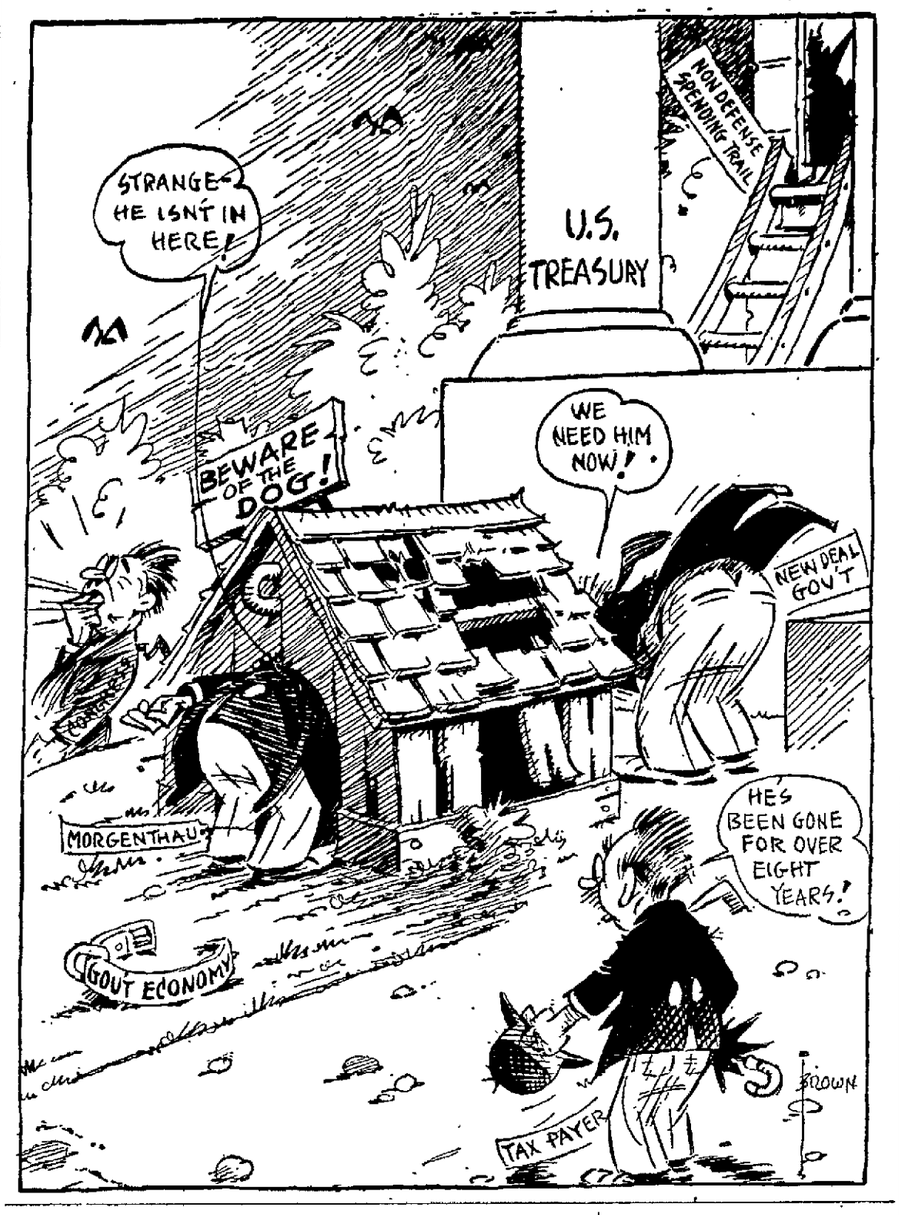
Well, it's the age of streamlining. Why not apply the process in other branches, too? Why not drop the multiplication table and the solar spectrum and the musical scales? That would make everything simpler for the children—for a while.

Joint Efforts for American Defense

THE United States and Canada have established a joint defense production committee to provide both nations with defense articles that can be produced quickly. Thus the two countries now mesh their war efforts more effectively than ever. American ammunition will be made to fit Canadian cannon and airplane motors will go snugly into Canadian planes.

Such standardization, extending to many kinds of war and peace production, will give our two countries, alike in so many ways, more unity than ever before. There is in such procedure, of course, no suggestion whatever of the political unity that used to be urged by some unwise Americans. It is understood now that peaceful co-operation is better for both countries. This status brings out the best on both sides and provides a rare example of international co-operation, whether for war or peace.

MISSING THE WATCH DOG — AT LAST!



Listen World!

They Keep the Faith!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Dedicated to Carpenters' Union, Local 162, San Mateo, California.)

AFTER THE WAR—WHAT?" Suppose we do save America and emerge bleeding and bankrupt, as we inevitably must, will we still believe the venture was worth the price?

For years we've been taking the American way of life for granted, boasting of its decency, glorying in its happiness, its peace and prosperity.* But now we're beginning to wonder. The tall dream seems tarnished. A creeping apathy is replacing the old enthusiasm . . . cynicism shackles our fighting faith.

IF IT IS LIKE THIS NOW WHAT WILL IT BE LIKE IN A DESPERATE, DEMORALIZED WORLD? WILL THERE BE ENOUGH OF OUR FATHERS' GUSTO TO CARRY US ON?

Those aren't "quiz queries." They are desperately practical and pressing. If the American way of life isn't going to be worth the living after the rumpus is over, we'd better stop defending it right now and invest, instead, in some choice concentration camp real estate. But I've a hunch it will be worth the living and I'm collecting all the evidence that comes my way. Bits like this, for example:

Ever hear of Carpenter's Union, Local 162, San Mateo, California? Probably not—they're not seeking publicity. Defense time's too precious to spend it talking about themselves. Yet, in spite of the rush, they're managing to do something mighty interesting.

Every week a selected batch of them . . . ten, fifteen, so on . . . drop in at a local hospital, peel off their coats, wait quietly while the Doc drains a pint of blood from each. Then, as quietly, go their way.

"Building a Blood Bank" they call it. Actually, it's simply a more efficient method of blood transfusion, whereby it's possible to save life under conditions where the old transfusions wouldn't work.

Instead of requiring personal contact, this blood is classified, dried, processed so it may be preserved indefinitely and sent to the far corners of the earth. Local 162 will not follow its course. But presently, from London or Lisbon, China or Chili, the slums of New York, an igloo in Alaska or a cyclone cellar in Kansas, a call will come. A young pilot crushed . . . a rancher mangled . . . a mother dying in childbirth . . .

And from Local 162, half way around the world, the answer will be waiting. Then the gray lips will warm with the living tide...the glazed eyes flutter...the cold hands clutch ...and that which was dead will come back to life again!

Nothing spectacular. Doesn't happen just in San Francisco and they aren't all Union men. You'll find them lining up in every big city, men from every walk of life—stevedores, playboys, cops, bank presidents, writers, merchants. But one thing they have in common . . . NONE OF THEM TALK ABOUT WHAT THEY DO AND NONE WILL ACCEPT A CENT. IT ISN'T A BIG GESTURE TO THEM. IT'S JUST THEIR WAY OF BEING "REGULAR" . . . OF BEING AMERICAN. And for me at least, that answers a lot of questions.

"Will life be worth living after the war? What of the old dream will have survived? What is being preserved and who's doing the preserving?"

That much of the old dream will have survived—that sharing one's life that a nameless brother may live! That is what's being preserved and they are doing the preserving . . . All those counterparts of "carpenter's Union—Local 162." And I'm thinking that as long as they keep the faith, we need not fear. Whatever the price—America will be worth all that it takes . . . All that we have to give.

And my heart drifts back to that One, long ago, who built the first Blood Bank. He was a Carpenter, too . . . born in days as cruel and hopeless. How could He ease that pain . . . save them from that despair? He had no money or power to give—but He could give Himself and His love. Men might forget words and warnings. But they would not forget a body broken on a blood-stained cross—to prove that love. So, for two thousand years the blood has flowed—

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Nov. 19, 1921.

Paul L. Hoover, graduate of Mansfield high school, was chosen as an instructor at Harvard university.

Frank Gottas, 79, died at his home on Crouse street.

It was reported to police that Western avenue and Brinkerhoff schools had been burglarized during night.

C. M. Hunter was re-elected president of the South Main street Evangelical Brotherhood.

Dr. M. J. Davis was called to Altoona, Pa., by the illness of his mother.

G. A. R. observed anniversary of delivery of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Nov. 19, 1936.

Automobiles operated by Paul Bush and Peter Zimmerman collided at West Fourth street and West Park drive.

Miss Florence Robinson, former Mansfield resident, died at her home in McComb, O.

Dr. and Mrs. John McLeod were in Alabama visiting Dr. McLeod's parents.

Dorothy Fulkheim, Cleveland lecturer, spoke at meeting of Mansfield Federation of Women.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The twentieth president of the United States, James A. Garfield, was born on this day in 1831 in Cuyahoga county, Ohio. "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives" were the closing words of Garfield in a speech at Wall Street following the death of President Lincoln in 1865. Little did Garfield know that on July 2, 1881, he would fall victim to an assassin himself.

American Year In Music.

When an artist announces that he is going to give the people what they want, one usually shivers and gets set to see the people get it in the neck. Public demand, usually determined without consulting the public, is the time-honored excuse for palming off a lazy man's tripe.

No so in the case of Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Returning to the city after making preparations for the coming season's programs, he announced that he would play what his audience wants. But he didn't talk about the Bach, the Beethoven and the Brahms that will be played, nor particularly about the fact that "Information, Please" Levant is to be a piano soloist and guect conductor.

What Mr. Golschmann emphasized is that 18 new compositions are to be played—most of them by Americans. It is to be an American year. Nothing can be more appropriate, and Mr. Golschmann can rest assured that his audience will heed his warning to be on time to hear these new works which he intends to play as the opening numbers of his concerts.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Everyday Poem

Bargain Day.

How very gay is bargain day
With counters to peruse
Of "marked down" odds and ends and much
From which to pick and choose.

What great delight the jolly sight
Of "clearance" all about.
Here is a joy a woman should
Not ever be without.

How gay the heart in such a mart
And what a joy to bring
The bought goods home, proclaim their worth,
The cheapness of each thing.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Difficulties of Small Businesses Are Cited In Confidential Report

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The president has on his desk a confidential report that would warm the heart of the defense-harried little business man if he could read it.

Submitted by Lowell Mellett, one of the "passion for anonymity" White House secretaries, following a careful survey in 35 states, the memorandum by inference severely criticizes OPM and her war department handling of defense contracts.

Mellett found that little business generally is bitterly disgusted with the whole defense administration, is convinced that it is being run by big business and corporation lawyers, and is up in arms politically about the matter. Mellett warns that the administration had better do something about the situation and do it fast or it will be just too bad in next year's crucial congressional elections.

A long list of specific grievances are detailed in the report: Little firms excluded from defense orders in favor of big competitors, even though there was no difference in their prices. Endless runarounds from OPM and army brasshats because the little business men had no "in" with the big shots. Small manufacturers put out of business by the priority system which enables big concerns with defense contracts to hog supplies of raw materials.

Mellett also implies that the Division of Contract Distribution, established several months ago to help little business, has so far accomplished very little in the way of results. Small business is still out in the cold when it comes to getting an equitable share of defense work.

The gist of the report is an old story to the president. For months others have been telling him the same thing, although not so comprehensively and effectively. The creation of SPAB and the Contract Distribution Division was an effort to remedy the situation. But these agencies are manned with the same type of executives who have been running the defense program from the start—big business men.

There isn't one little business man among them.

* * *

Lone Refuge.

IN FACT, in all of Washington there is only one place where a little business man is functioning in behalf of small business.

That is in the justice department, where trust-busting Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold has set up a Small Business Section and installed as its head a genuine little business man.

He is Guy Holcomb, a strapping, two-fisted Atlanta filling station operator, who has never had a public job before, hates redtape, and loves nothing better than to tangle with a brasshat who is pushing around a little fellow.

Operating from a cubby-hole office, with only a secretary as his assistant, and without fanfare and hoopla, Holcomb in the month he has been functioning already has chalked up an impressive record as a defender of little business men. He has got them contracts, supplies, and entry to official doors previously closed.

If you are a little business man and are having defense troubles, Holcomb is the one man in Washington to tell them to. He may not be able to help you, but he'll certainly try. There will be no complaint on that score.

One Time Diers.

FRED G. ORSINGER, popular director of the commerce department's aquarium, was regaling sight-seers on the high mortality rate of his finny charges.

"Fish are a mighty poor insurance risk," he explained, "especially the rare ones. I went to New York recently and brought back a pink-tailed South American catfish, the only one in the United States. It died soon after arriving in Washington, due to the temperature change or too much rough handling on the way down.

"Then, there were those two man-eating piranhas we had here in the aquarium," continued Orsinger, warming to his subject. "One of the danged things almost bit my finger off. Maybe that's what killed him. Anyway, he died soon after. Another jumped out of the tank a few days later and died from bruises he received while we were trying to dislodge him from between some air pipes. I guess about the most interesting fish we have in here now are those little red-and-blue neons over there."

"And how often do they die?" asked a wide-eyed listener.

"Only once," replied Orsinger.

* * *

Loophole for Japs.

THAT "freezing" order impounding Japanese funds isn't so tough as authorities thought it was.

It's not being advertised, but a loophole has just been discovered by means of which Jap agents have been quietly obtaining large quantities of desperately needed strategic raw materials in South America.

This is the way they work it: A Japanese agent enters into a contract with a South American company for an "exchange" of Japanese manufactured goods for raw materials. On the surface the deal is a straightforward barter transaction.

But that's only the cover-up.

To guarantee the delivery of the promised manufactured goods, the Jap agent deposits an irrevocable letter of credit payable to the South American buyer with a New York bank. This sum is equal to the amount due for the raw materials. Then after these supplies are shipped, the Japs default on their end of the bargain.

They notify the South American customer that they are unable to deliver the promised goods. The South American claims the posted guarantee and is paid off. In dollar and cents he loses nothing. The Japs get the raw materials they want and also thumb their nose at the U. S. A., which is unable to seize the letter of credit because it belongs to the Latin American buyer to whose account it was deposited.

Recently the Japs obtained 1,000 tons of extremely valuable manganese ore from Chile in this manner.

Note—Treasury and commerce department experts are studying measures to plug up the loophole. The problem is a delicate one because diplomatic as well as financial factors are involved.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If there is anybody who still clings to the idea that election nights in New York are exciting — except national elections—I wish he had stood with me on the marquee of the Astor and waited in vain for the crowds and the excitement on the night that the Little Flower was reelected mayor for a third term. For on that night Broadway was duller than a poor Monday night when not even a fight at the Garden is going on.

I saw a blind begger usher 1 gently to the curb by a policeman, who was so bored with having nothing to do that he barely stifled a yawn as word came that O'Dwyer's early lead had been whittled away. Up and down Broadway were marshalled mounted policemen for the occasion. Their mounts were sleek and their uniforms were snappy, but they might just as well have remained at home. The crowds and the excitement simply weren't there.

Sometimes a million people gather shank to shank in Times Square and glue their eyes on the running-electric comment on the Times Building. . . . But that takes place only on the great national election nights and on New Year Eves.

* *

THIS year's mayoralty election night was a sad anti-climax to the barrage of oratory that had been laid down. The ballrooms and restaurants were bare, manned only by glum looking waiters who had nothing to do except shift occasionally from one foot to another. Buses rolled along on schedule and that was the tip-off. On big election nights, the buses wouldn't be allowed on Broadway. They wouldn't be able to move.

Newspaper photographers stood around disgustedly. It was a wasted evening for most of them. Most of them went back to their offices by 10 o'clock. I listened to the police broadcasts and with monotonous regularity the precincts reported back, "No disorders." It was almost as though the cue had been given by Mayor LaGuardia himself when, shortly after 11 o'clock he yawned and went to bed. Yep, the election was held. . . . But if you hadn't seen it in the papers, you'd never have known it.

* * *

MOST of the film companies have sold their old films to the government, to be made into gun cotton. . . . Henry Youngman knows a woman who calls her husband "Theory" because he works so seldom. . . . When Elsa Maxwell, the professional party-giver, was asked about a certain affair, she did not hestitate to reply, "I'd have been bored stiff if Elsa Maxwell hadn't been there." . . . Bette Davis worked her way through dramatic school waiting on table. . . . Which is exactly what Sophie Tucker was doing when Willie Howard discovered her—well, years ago.

If you like your beef merely wounded, you'll go for that G-Man Special at Lindy's, which is named, of course, after J. Edgar Hoover. . . . It's a raw steak with onions.

I had to laugh at Oscar Levant declining a dinner invitation. . . . He wired: "Sorry, can't make it. Lie follows in detail."

Odd how many fighters want to become restauranteurs and night-club operators. . . . Dempsey, Slapsy Maxie Rosenbloom, Jim Braddock, Barney Ross, Micky Walker, Jack Delaney and others have tried their hands. . . . Perhaps Dempsey's success has been greatest.

A Farmer's Diary

First Snow

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HUSKED corn from the standing stalks after dawn today. The few remaining blades were whipped to ribbons, and the tassels were tilted and half torn off by the wind, but low along the windswept withered stems hung, inverted, the fruit for which this hardy race had lived. Each ear hung down toward the soil from which it came. On many the husks had parted and portions of hard yellow grain peeped out. The ears snapped off in my hand without much effort on my part.

Chilly dampness was in the air. The ground was wet and cold from earlier sleet and rain. I had started at the westward end of the row so that I might keep my back to the wind. But from time to time I turned to look at the scudding gray clouds and I saw when the wooded hills behind me grew white and were blotted out.

A gust whirled a few scattered snowflakes over the dampened fodder and roared on eastward. Then the storm was at hand—the first snow of the year. I stood, alone, enveloped in a wilderness of snow, and enjoyed myself, although it came so thick at times that I gasped like one who feels the shock of icy spray. Familiar objects were blotted out—the barn, the trees, the nearest standing shocks. I heard the gentle sifting sound of flakes alighting on tattered blades and sagging ears. It was as rhythmic as tiny castanets.

Before my work was done, my clothes were white and I felt the dampness penetrate my shoulders and course about the muscles of my arms. I moved faster, to counteract any tendency to chill.

Above me, winging high, I heard a kildee scream without a rest, and a ring-necked pheasant crowed from a nearby fencerow. I thought I knew how they felt, pleasantly buffeted by the quiet whirling whiteness that seemed so natural and so timely.

Presently I came beneath the overshot of the barn, where the hungry shoats were clamoring for their breakfast. My feet were muddy. I was damp and snowy and slightly out of breath. Yet warmly at the back of my mind I heard the music of castanets, and my spirits were high as I went in for my breakfast.

WILL DECIDE ON RAILROAD'S PROPOSAL SOON

Bucyrus Council To Make Decision on Property Sale By Dec. 2.

BUCYRUS — Recommended by Mayor William F. Whiteamire, Bucyrus city council Tuesday night agreed to make a decision in the proposed offer for $11,000 for a clear title to the local New York Central shops by next meeting night, Dec. 2.

Council has had under consideration the company's offer made in June and an answer has been delayed because of the "illness of the city solicitor and to allow further time to study the question" Councilman Harry Carle, chairman of the finance committee, stated.

The possibility of the city providing a city parking lot rests with the finance commitee which was given a proposal for a lease on a North Walnut street lot, known as the Park hotel site. E. Blair Ruhl has offered the lot to the city for $120 a year for parking purposes. The lot would accommodate approximately 70 cars.

City Auditor E. C. Oppenlander cautioned council to use care in next year's expenditures when the finance committee returned a report favoring the requested increase in salaries of water works employes. "Municipalities are being warned to watch their 1942 budgets and to stay comfortably within their income" he advised Council accepted the recommendations of the committee but took no legislative action.

Requests for increases in other departments filed with council during the past several months, were not discussed or included in the finance committees recommendation.

Provision of the policemen pension benefits were extended to cover police activities outside the municipality by order of the chief of police, Arthur Stuckert · Chief Stuckert requested council make provision for such protection which will permit police protection at Aumiller park which is outside the city limits and also permit police to give assistance to law enforcement officers from surrounding municipalities should the need arise.

Councilman-elect James Kehrer was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Councilman-at-large Walter J. Michael, who resigned several months ago due to business reasons. Kehrer took ofice immediately and was seated

Bruce Sharrock, chairman of the park committee, asked to be excused from the park chairmanship and was replaced by Carl Light Sharrock remained as a member of the committee

DISMISS TODAY

BUCYRUS — Crawford county rural and city schools will dismiss classes today for the remainder of the week, in the first vacation of the school year. Classes will be resumed Monday.

Christmas vacation will begin Dec. 20 and end Jan. 4, in Bucyrus city schools although several county schools plan to dismiss on Christmas eve for a 10-day vacation.

PLAN DANCE

ASHLAND — Annual Thanksgiving dance at the Ashland Country club will be held Saturday night with Tommy Van's orchestra furnishing music.

Friday at one p. m. ladies of the club and guests will hold a luncheon followed by bridge. Mrs. Frank Crain is chairman of arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bear are chairmen of the dance committee.

HUNTERS BLAMED

BUCYRUS—Fire which was blamed by A. J. Keplinger, water works superintendent, to a hunter's carelessly thrown match or cigaret, destroyed a half acre of small evergreen trees at the new city reservoir Monday afternoon. Several hundred trees were lost in the blaze which brought Bucyrus city firemen to the reservoir with the small service truck.

GALION COUNCIL PASSES UP PAY HIKE PROPOSAL

City Fathers Fail To Take Action on Legislation Boosting Salaries.

GALION — Because no action was taken on a proposed ordinance at Tuesday night's meeting of city council, members will not get a pay hike for another two years.

The ordinance presented for its first reading, and which would have had to been approved in order that the new council which will be seated the first of the year would benefit, failed for want of action.

Had it passed, council members would have a pay raise of $1.30 on each month, and the city solicitor would have received $300 more per year.

Any similar ordinance that would provide a raise for council members cannot be passed for another two years, since a council cannot raise its own pay during term of ofifce.

A majority of the present council members will be in office for another two years.

Mayor W. M. King's report for the past month showed collections to be $115 70 for fines and $13.40 for costs.

Council also received a claim presented by Anthony C. Benedict against the city seeking $2,000 for injuries received while he was working on the roof of the electric light plant. This was referred to the city solicitor.

Approval of the First National bank as a depository for $200,000 of active funds of the city was approved.

Council also passed an ordinance which calls for the vacating of an alley at the rear of the William Wagner residence, Fairview avenue. Another ordinance was passed to vacate the Guinther court between Harding Way West and Cherry street, Boston and Orange streets, after council received a petition from the trustees of the Seventh Day Adventists church. It was understood that a new church will be built on an east and west street in this court

MISS MARY HARPER TO WED JOHN DUNN

Rev. John H. Flynn to Perform Quiet Service for Couple Thanksgiving Day at 9:30 A. M. In Parsonage of St. Peter's Church.

MR. AND MRS. HERMAN HARPER, 207 South Mulberry street, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Belle, to John Dunn of Marion, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Dunn of that city, at a party given at their home Monday evening. The couple will exchange nuptial vows Thanksgiving day at 9:30 a. m. in the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church. Rev. John H. Flynn will officiate at the quiet ceremony.

Mrs. Luther Taylor, aunt of the bride-elect from New Martinsville, W. Va., and Miss Betty Uhlich assisted the hostess during the evening. Games and contests were the diversions for the twenty guests in attendance. Prizes were won by Mrs. Jane Rowe and Miss Margaret Kochheiser. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with roses and chrysanthemums. The hostesses presented the honoree with a gift of linen.

Tourist Club Hears About Flourescent Lighting Tuesday

Mrs. C. V. Gates was hostess Tuesday at her home, 20 Stewart avenue, to 23 members of the Tourist club and three guests, Rev. H. L. Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Ketner. "The Great West" was interestingly described in a talk given by Mrs. H. L. Gilbert. Rev. Gilbert illustrated the talk with colored pictures of their recent trip. Special points of interest were Salt Lake City, Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam, Los Angeles, Yosemite Valley, San Francisco, Yellowstone National park and Mt. Rushmore.

Mr. Ketner, member of the High school faculty, was guest speaker. His subject was "Flourescent Lighting." The speaker told the history of lighting from early times to the present. He spoke of details of construction of flourescent lighting, of its operating characteristics, of its applications and the value of true practical daylight for the first time in the history of artificial lighting. His illustrations and examples added much to Mr. Ketner's informative talk.

When the club meets on Dec. 12, with Mrs. M. W. Wappner at the Ohio State Reformatory, the topics "Ohio Potteries" and "Art of Flower Arrangement" will be presented by Mrs. Charles Ray and Mrs. Frank Leavitt.

Get a System for Make-Up

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

Method in your makeup saves time and money. Before you step in front of a mirror is the time to put on a makeup cape.

It will protect your clothes from powder and lipstick stains, from loose-falling hair and—perish the thought—dandruff. But don't forget to make up your neck where the cape covers it even if you have to tuck the cape top inside your collar while you do it.

Here are some other timely tips: Keep your clothes brush where you can find it—but away from your powder box.

If you place your makeup and makeup tools in an as-you-need-them arrangement, it will speed up your sprucing. That goes whether you use a shelf, table, kit or dresser drawer.

A frequent inventory (once in six weeks) helps keep things handy. Then you replace powder puffs, throw away empty jars and buy the new comb or powder brush you've been needing. And straighten things up once a week to improve your makeup time. drawer is an asset.

Two Study Clubs Have Joint Dinner-Meeting

Joan of Arc and Santa Maria Study clubs joined recently for a dinner meeting in the Daughters of Isabella club rooms. After the dinner, Miss Gertrude McClure, president of the Santa Maria Study group called the meeting to order. Brief business session was held and Mrs. Bertha Kalbfleisch was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Grace Kmetz presented the paper, "History of National Circle, Daughters of Isabella." She told that it was first instituted in New Haven, Conn., on May 14, 1897, as an auxiliary to No. 65, Knights of Columbus, by Miss Charlotte A. Kennedy, who remained National Regent until her death, March 13, 1931. Membership today numbers more than 50,000; in Ohio, alone, there are 37 Circles.

The meeting of the Joan of Arc Study club was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mae Maxwell. Miss Marie Kalbfleisch gave an interesting review of the book, "The Man Who Got Even With God," by Frederic M. Dunne, O. C. S. A. True or false contest followed, with Mrs. Emma Seibert recipient of the prize. New member of the Joan of Arc club is Miss Ann Yirga.

Bridge was played after the two clubs closed their respective meetings. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. James Kuneman, Mrs. Frank Kmetz and Miss Gertrude McClure. Mrs. Anna L. Loykovich will be hostess and Miss Mary Rizzo assistant hostess for the next meeting of the Joan of Arc group, which will be a Christmas gift exchange. Santa Maria club will meet next with Miss Jerry Madden.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

"The Authority on Authorities"

WERE THEY PUSHED UP?

When considering a double of the opponents' game contract, after a good deal of competitive bidding by the two sides, an important factor is the question of whether they bid their game voluntarily or were pushed into it by your side's bidding. If they did it on their own, there is a very good chance they have the values, in distribution and honors, which will enable them to make their contract. That is, unless there is something very freakish about your own holdings. On the other hand, if your side kept bidding to the point where the opponents could not get the contract without bidding game, it is possible you may have shoved them beyond their depth.

After this deal, West was sorry he doubled. In fact, he was full of regret as soon as he saw that dummy with its blank in clubs and consequent ability to ruff his lead of the club K. The declarer, after brief planning, came to his own hand with the diamond J to ruff the club 4 with the heart 7, then called forth the diamond A from dummy for a discard of his last club, the Q. His heart 8 to the J and K brought a club return, ruffed by his heart 2. The heart A and Q settled West's trumps, then the spade 10 went to the J, Q and K. Back came another club, ruffed with the heart 3, then the spade 9 to A. West's last club was trumped by the heart 4, and the spade 6 to the 8 accounted for the final trick, making the contract.

If West had reviewed the bidding, he would have recalled that his side's last bid was his own call of 3-Clubs. After that North made a free rebid of his diamonds, South a rebid of his hearts at three, and then North deliberately raised that to game. This should have made West realize his opponents considered they had something, probably club shortage, on which to base their boldness.

If West bids 1-No Trump to open this deal and East 3-Hearts, what should West then call?

Raisins, dates, currants and prunes often blend better in cake, cooky and bread mixtures if they are soaked first to soften. If the recipe calls for unsoaked prunes, however, use them that way.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

There were two things I wanted taken to the basement, where I had left Harry Underwood unconscious—Miss Whitlock's first aid kit, Lillian's pistol, and sheets and blankets for an improvised bed. But knowing the two women before me, I wasted no time in instructions.

"You'll know what to bring," I said over my shoulder, as I sped back toward the stairs, and when, breathless and heavily laden, they arrived in the basement only a minute or two behind me, I found that, like Kipling's Disko Troop, I had not "been mistook in my judgments." They had brought the pistol and everything necessary for the care of the wounded man.

I found everything just as I had left it. The two conscious gangsters were still cursing and pounding the iron walls of their dungeon, while no sound whatever came from the jam closet into which I had dragged the unconscious leader of the gunmen, whom Harry had struck down.

Three Work Rapidly.

But though Lillian's eyes and those of the nurse widened at the sounds, neither of them wasted a second's time on them. Lillian, all weakness forgotten, came directly to her husband's side as I bent over him, and dropped to her knees beside him.

"Harry, boy," she murmured, and it seemed to me the love in her voice would reach the ears of a dead man. "It's Lillian. Come back to me!"

Miss Whitlock had beckoned to me, and for a few seconds we worked fast in putting down blankets, covered with a sheet, on the cold stone floor, so close to Harry's body that, rolled in hospital fashion, we could slip them under him, then spread out the bed on his other side.

"You bandaged the wound?" the nurse asked as we worked.

"As well as I could, and as soon as he fainted," I told her.

"Then we'll get him on here first thing," she said. "Mrs. Underwood"—she raised her voice slightly—"will you take your husband's feet? I'll take his shoulders, and Mrs. Graham will roll these sheets and blankets under him. Start to lift and roll when I say 'three'."

Nurse Takes Charge.

Tensely we obeyed her, and within two seconds after the count of three, the big man was stretched out on the improvised bed and Miss Whitlock, on her knees, was counting his pulse and listening to his breathing, while Lillian and I, with hands tightly clasped, stood by watching her every movement.

"You got that bandage on in time," the nurse said finally, nodding approvingly at me, and Lillian gave a little cry.

"Oh! Then he won't—"

"He'll be all right if he stays put for a few days," Miss Whitlock gave her verdict firmly. "But he must have lost a lot of blood."

"He did," I said grimly, and she took a vial from her bag, uncorked it, and handed it to Lillian.

Harry Regains Consciousness.

"Hold that underneath his nostrils while I fix up a hypo," she said. Lillian obeyed her feverishly, and was rewarded a second later by seeing her husband's eyes open.

For the fraction of a second they had the unseeing look of one who wakens from a swoon. Then they sharpened to recognition—and remembrance.

"Lil," he breathed, "what are you doing here? Madge!"—his voice was bitterly reproachful—"you knew she was to stay upstairs."

"She knew nothing of the sort," his wife said crisply. "I obeyed you until you were hurt. Now, please think of yourself for a change."

"But don't you know the lookout may—"

"Don't talk, Mr. Underwood," the nurse said firmly. "Here, Mrs. Graham, hold this uninjured arm steady for me, and when I've finished, tell him everything you know about what's happened since he went under."

Madge Tells Him Her Story.

She sponged a place on the arm, sent her hypodermic home deftly, and laid the arm down again.

"Don't move or speak!" she reiterated. "Now you may tell him, Mrs. Graham."

"If the lookout does come, he can hear or see nothing," I said. "I closed the window, covered the mess on the floor with scattered newspapers, and dragged the man you knocked cold into the jam closet and locked him in.

"You've been out less than ten minutes," I went on, "and my father's men ought to be along any minute, shouldn't they? Just close your eyes if I'm right; don't speak."

CHAPTER XXVI

The girls hadn't heard that, were momentarily out of earshot.

"Nope. It was yours by rights. You just let her step in for fun, and I helped you. Now I'll pay you first thing back home. But I need this cat right now. Promise?"

Ken showed surprise, although he nodded. "Okay, but—"

Ward turned from him. "Miss Boone, ma'am!" he called, seriously. "Come here, please . . . Now Ken has given me this lion, and I hereby take pleasure in, uh—"

All at once Ward turned crimson. He couldn't have said why.

"Ward!" Joy breathed, stooping over. Ward was squatting near the beautiful beast.

"I'm aiming to say," he resumed, "that you and him, you and he, are both blond, and both full of spunk, ma'am. You both got plenty of nerve in your respective fields, and we all admire you for it. Both of you. I figure you two ought to be together. You said you liked pets. You helped rope this one. Well, ma'am—he's yours."

* * *

Joy's lovely blue eyes looked straight at Ward. The other people were silent. Ward stood up to take his hat and gesture it at the lion there on the ground before them.

All at once Joy threw her arms around Ward and kissed him!

She backed away instantly and said, "Thanks! More than I can tell you! No man ever gave me such gifts before! Not like the fawn and this!"

"HEY!" James Glenn the photographer shouted that. "I wasn't set for that one. You'll have to do it over, Miss Joy. Swell picture!"

"Hold on!" Ward looked distressed. But the others kidded him out of it, made him stand there while Joy gave him her kiss of thanks again.

This time, it seemed to Ward, the kiss was different. Before it had been of the "pop" variety, and could be accepted as such. But the re-enactment — lordy! Ward turned more crimson than ever. Her lips seemed to cling much longer, not just in posing, but in something more meaningful. Never, never in all his 26 years had Ward McMurray experienced anything so thoroughly delightful, so utterly overwhelming.

He didn't do or say anything about it. He appeared to dismiss it casually. But he turned more or less automatically to his sister and realized guiltily that Polly had seen through his very soul!

"Sis, you—you know how I felt back there!" He murmured half an hour later, when the party was riding slowly back toward camp again. They were side by side, alone. The lion was tied to a long sapling pole, one end of which was dragging and the other tied to Ken's saddle, Indian fashion.

She nodded. "You impressed her, Ward," Polly whispered.

"You think, maybe—?" The yearning shone through him again.

"I know so, Ward! You're making headway. I can tell. Don't try to rush her yet. Keep acting indifferent. But you've made progress!"

"It's a hell of a thing, being in love!" the young man growled.

* * *

Polly said no more although she might have agreed to that. She herself had seen the man she loved "take hold" today. Seen him rise above his cloistered, bookish self and become the man she knew he could be in a man's outdoors. But she had failed wholly to find any personal encouragement.

Back at camp the captured lion of course created excitement in Dr. Palmer, Bettina Carlson, and Mr. McMurray, sr. Joy Boone having a live panther was Joy Boone "in character" still, they all knew.

"I'm not sure what you can do with him," Dr. Palmer teased. "He might disrupt the college classes. But Fiesta del sol is coming up in a few weeks now, in Phoenix. Perhaps you and your lion—"

"What's that?" Joy asked. "Fiesta del what? What is it?"

"Fiesta del sol," Mr. McMurray supplied, affably. "Festival of the Sun. Big Spanish celebration every autumn in town. Really big doing's, missy. The queen is always chosen from the Frontier university girls. Popular vote. Now you, with a pet lion—whoo!"

All eyes again were on Joy Boone, who stood there beaming.

James Glenn, picture magazine photographer, sent his negatives to New York by air mail and himself departed that night via airplane with Terry Brookfield. Glenn wired back two days later that the magazine would use four pages of Joy Boone and her western activities in the issue of Nov. 1, also a cover in full color.

"That will be just before Fiesta del sol starts," Polly told her. "It opens on Armistice day."

Brookfield's syndicated features about Joy ran for a week in nearly 200 American newspapers. They too were illustrated, with some additional photos he had bought from Glenn. Joy Boone's fame soared to a new high—and with it this time was Frontier university. People coast to coast, who had never heard of the little college for girls at Phoenix, Ariz., now were intimate with it in some detail. Hundreds of letters requesting catalogues or descriptive matter began to pour in—to the distress of Dr. Palmer.

"I deeply regret, Bettina," he said one October evening to Joy Boone's secretary, "that the university has to gain its renown on superficial publicity. That is to say, on extra-curricular activities, you understand. Why couldn't its scholastic ideals have been the media for publicity approach?"

Bettina smiled. "No, Kenyon. America isn't like that. We are a great, sprawly, hilarious kind of nation. Magnificent really, but a trifle devil-may-care. We like to read about our Joy Boones catching lions alive! Not that we dislike our colleges—but, Kenyon, why don't you take advantage of this yourself? You could write an article for one of the literary periodicals and present Frontier from your point of view! I'm sure of it. I know two or three of the editors myself who might be interested."

Dr. Palmer brightened. "Will you help me write it?"

"Of course. If I can."

"You can. We see eye to eye. We have discussed it at length, have we not? I respect your critical acumen, your astuteness of judgment. You are not a highly educated woman, you are a brilliant humanitarian, Bettina!"

"Goodness!"

"I mean it! I hardly need say I admire you very much. Now as to our article—Frontier was established to preserve those very ideals of Americanism to which you refer, especially the western pioneer culture. It is ground into us. It is part of our heritage here. This Fiesta del sol is interesting the young folk now—it is but a tradition of beauty from the past. Quaint and lovely folk custom, brought somewhere into modern tempo. I am most anxious to see it. Now in our article, I suggest"—

They talked it out at length, and in three days they had written it and sent it in. Moreover, it sold at once. The editor telegraphed his acceptance and thanks. Dr. Palmer was elated. When Bettina Carlson refused to share in the $500 the article earned, he sent her a box of flowers and a beautiful new Indian rug for her room. He was like a boy with his enthusiasms!

"You ought to see Tootsy Carlson," Joy confided to Polly that next day after the gift. "She giggles like a high school kid! Honest, Polly, she's the in-lovest somebody I ever saw."

"Isn't it sweet!"

"Un hunh. But Tootsy's forty."

"And Dr. Palmer's forty-three. What does that matter, Joy? If you love somebody, you love somebody, and that's that! I think it's grand."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, November 20.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A day in which affairs seem to move at high tempo toward dramatic and thrilling climax, judging by interesting lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time in which much work of first magnitude may be accomplished but only by constructive, decisive and well-organized effort and not by means of spectacular and sudden spurts, which may prove to be a "flash in the pan." Impulse in this direction should be suppressed, as well as all attempts at extravagant exploitation, excesses and indulgence, threatening opposition, disputes and estrangements. Keep poised, stabilized, systematic.

Those whose birthday it is may be heading for a year of danger, distress and regrets if they are impulsively urged to a wayward, high-handed, extravagant, and showoff mode of conduct, instead of a discreet, balanced, practical, systematic, conservative and prudent course in all their relations in life. The other way may mean defeat, estrangement from best friends and highest aims with a generally devastating and dislocated set of circumstances. Keep sane, steady and calm and surprising benefits may accrue.

A child born on this day may have a turbulent, erratic, indulgent and extravagant nature which may alienate it from its friends and ambitions. Rigid early training and discipline is enjoined, as it has much energy and initiative.

NOSE PICKING
May be a Sign of
WORMS

Don't blame your child! It looks like just a nasty habit, but it may mean that ugly, crawling roundworms are starting trouble inside the child right now. Other warning signs are: "picky" appetite, fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itching seat.

Anybody, anywhere, can "catch" roundworms! If you even suspect your child has them, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! It's America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested, and used by millions for over a century.

Jayne's expels stubborn worms, yet acts gently. If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

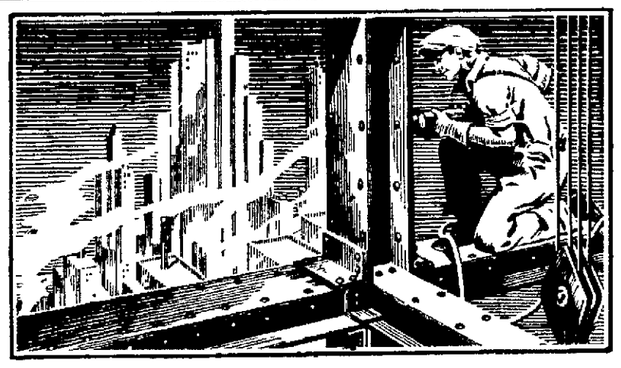
What are you building there?

Everywhere in America, towers of steel and stone rise to remind us of the vastness of American industry. Impressive buildings, yes—but something more. They house the nerve centers of American business. They remind us that American products have become the standard for all the world.



What's the meaning of a plant so big?

To supply America's demand for Budweiser requires all the vast facilities of the world's largest brewery with its 137 buildings covering 70 city blocks. Like a great city, this plant produces a volume of electricity that would supply all the homes in El Paso, steam enough to heat all the homes in Syracuse, ice that would meet the needs of all the households in Spokane. A great plant, yes—but something more...the answer to America's demand for a quality product.

16 Seniors Will Play Last Game for Tygers Tomorrow

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"Who's afraid of Galion?"

That sign has been posted on the board at the City News for two weeks, and it means what it says now. But Sam Saprano admits that sign got to be pretty embarrassing in the week before the City News gridders tagged Sunday's 13 to 0 defeat on the Galion Jaycees.

"Everybody who came in the place read the sign out loud," says Sam. "Who's afraid of Galion? And there was always some bright person around to point at me and say 'He is.'

"And it got so the bright boy was right, almost."

* * *

The Jaycees play a return game with the City News at Madison field Sunday afternoon, and another big crowd should be on hand.

Mansfield's semi-pro gridders played their best game of the season to down Galion, and they needed to play their best because Galion had a dangerous team, and one that battled the Mansfielders right down to the final gun.

* * *

"We were awfully lucky they didn't score on us," declares Coach Earl McMullen of the Mansfield eam. "They were down in scoring territory often enough."

* * *

Remember Warner (Pete) Peterson, the chop-stroke artist who spread-eagled the field in Mansfield's city tennis tournament of 1940?

It's Sergeant Peterson now, of Camp Wallace, Texas, and he's still getting in his chop strokes in regular week-end play at Galveston.

Pete was just recently promoted to sergeant in the supply department at Camp Wallace.

* * *

Peterson tells an interesting yarn about his first trip to Texas last June. Two coaches on the train were jam-packed with raw recruits, but Pete discovered that a third coach had only a lieutenant and a porter as passengers.

A tip to the porter added Peterson to the third coach elite clientele. For two days and two nights, Pete and the lieutenant played cards and chatted on this and that subject, and by the time they got to Texas they were good friends

* * *

And just to make the story complete, it turned out that the lieutenant was Peterson's lieutenant at camp.

Buck Grid Team Sets Wolf Trap

Twelve Seniors on Ohio Squad Meeting Michigan.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes went through another "hit 'em hard and solid" practice today in preparation for the battering they expect to take in winding up the season against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

But Coach Paul E. Brown gave no indication that he thought his lads wouldn't be ready to give as well as take. He concentrated on blocking and tackling technique in hopes of running his victory record for his first season out of high school competition to seven out of eight games.

* * *

Tomorrow's workout will be the last on the home field for 12 seniors. The squad will leave Columbus Friday morning and practice in Michigan stadium that afternoon.

* * *

Michigan's Coach Fritz Crisler put his squad through a long drill yesterday, remarking that "our boys haven't been hit hard since the Minnesota game."

It's an odd statement, but a cinch bet—that Illinois and Northwestern both will be on the losing end of their game at Dyche stadium Saturday.

The one loses a coach, the other a team.

For Illinois, it will be farewell to Robert Zuppke, who resigned after coaching the Illini for 29 years.

For Northwestern it will be goodbye to 20 seniors, 15 of them classed as regulars.

And when in one sweep you lose a backfield that includes De Correvont, Clawson, Chambers, Benson, Kepford, Kruger and Erdlitz and a line that includes Bauman, Cook, Zorich, Mundy, Johnson, Heagy and Keifer, you have just about lost a team.

* * *

* * *

The fact they haven't won a conference game all year doesn't seem to deter the Illini. Dick Good, junior quarterback, said. "We almost won against Ohio State and we'll be scrapping even harder this week."

Haire Rolls 603 In Transportation

Haire rolled a 603 total on games of 209-192-202 to pace the Transportation bowling league at Colony alleys last night. G. Lanning, sr., chalked up high game of 244.

PERRYSVILLE LOSES TO SAVANNAH BY TIGHT TALLY

PERRYSVILLE — Savannah high school came from behind in the last quarter of its basketball game with Perrysville here last night to win by the close score of 32-31.

Perrysville, coached by Lowell Ruggles, kept a first quarter lead until the final frame and then battled down three lead changes before finally being beaten.

High scorer for Savannah was Weaver with 19 points, for Perrysville, Atkinson, 9 points.

City Bucket Sked Opened

Yunckers, Athletics and Westinghouse Win Tilts.

Last night at the senior high school the City league basketball schedule got underway. The season's lid lifter was a tilt between the Yuncker Sports and the Blue Goose Sohioans, last year runnerup. The Sports took the game in a last quarter spurt of four buckets tallying 33 points to the Sohioans 25.

The game started with each team scoring buckets in turns. At the half time the Sports held a two bucket lead of 15 to 11. In the third period the Sohians came back strong on rebounds to tie the score but in the last three minutes of play the Sports forged ahead when Wade threw in a fluke bucket from the entire length of the floor.

* * *

The throw was meant for a pass to Dynamite Boyd under the basket but it dropped through for a tally. The Sohioans couldn't keep up the pace they set in the third and the Sports held on to their margin of points for dear life.

* * *

In the second tilt of the evening the Mansfield Athletic Supply, last year's championship team, met the league newcomers under the O. P. S. banner. The Athletic Supply took an early lead and held the lead for the entire game. The Ohio Public Service team put up a great floor battle but did not hit the bucket with enough consistency.

The Athletics composed almost entirely of former Mansfield High players handled the ball cratically most of the game but were able to dump in enough shots to double the score on the Electrics.

Burton tallied six points for the losers while McGinty and Chapman tallied six each to lead the Athletics.

* * *

Chapman is a newcomer to the league and stands 6 foot 8 inches which tops anyone in the league by a big margin. He was formerly a star at Temple university and has played exhibition ball. The Electrics did a fine job at holding him to six points. The final score was 28 to 10.

* * *

The finale of the evening was a wild melee that brought together the City News and the Westinghouse. The result of this slambang affair was a 28 to 16 victory for the Westinghouse team.

Although the Richard's managed team held a five point advantage over the News five consecutive buckets in the beginning of the third quarter put the game on ice for the Westinghouse.

Rose and Nagle led the City News scoring with three points apiece. Howard Poole slammed in six to pace the Westinghouse team. Rose and Herbich sparked the Newsies while Hummel and McCarty played a good floor game for their team. Both teams played very eratic ball and wild passes and wild shots predominated the game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—One thing we can be thankful for is that we don't have the job of trying to pick a successor to Bob Zuppke at Illinois. . . . So, free of charge, we'll offer the suggestion that the Illini get either Red Grange or Don Peden—the best player and the best coach Zup ever turned out. . . . Even then, they may have to sign up Jimmy Conzelman to fill in for the Dutchman on the banquet circuit. . . . Typical of Zup was his explanation to Columbus writers before the Ohio State game: "The reason we haven't been doing so well is because we've been playing on flat fields. My boys are so fast they need banked turns. The way it's been they just fall down."

FOOTBALL FRICASEE.

Season's first "bowl" game comes up tomorrow at New Orleans. . . . It's the "Turkey bowl" battle between a couple of sandlot teams which its 19-year-old promoter, Allen Lacombe, has built up into an event that draws 10,000 fans. . . . Leon Cooke, Northwestern tackle, broke his wrist the day it was announced he had won a national penmanship contest.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

C. M. Gibbs, Baltimore Sun: "Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians says night baseball is a novelty and therefore he doesn't want to give his fans too much of it. This, at least is consistent. The annual swoons of his ball club are no novelty so he keeps giving the fans more of the same every season."

CLEANING THE CUFF.

Louisville may be the next step on the pro hockey circuit. Folks there are talking about building an ice rink. . . . The Lambert trophy committee, which gives an annual award to the East's leading team, has just discovered that Catholic U. isn't playing football this year. . . . Detroit bowlers turned in three perfect games in four days. . . . Frankness note: At the end of the new Colorado basketball roster, Bill Day added: "Players may be dropped and added in December following quarterly examinations."

Kinton Takes Lead In Tappan League

Kinton led the Tappan Stove bowling league last night with a 560 total on games of 189-199-172. E. McIntire had high game of 226, while Joe Harrod turned in 214 and 200, then dropped to 137 on his last game.

BASKETBALL OFFICIALS ATTEND RULES CLINIC

COLUMBUS— (AP) —Approximately 150 central Ohio basketball coaches and officials are expected to attend a rules clinic here next Monday.

The clinic will be the 30th conducted this season throughout Ohio by Kent Pfeiffer, rules interpreter for the Central Ohio Basketball Officials' association.

Every registered official is required to attend at least one such meeting next year.

Illinois Job Still Open

Trustees Will Canvass Field as Zup Resigns.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The way was clear for a new athletic regime at the University of Illinois today, but a successor to Coach Robert Zuppke, who guided Illini gridiron destiny for 29 years, was a matter of wide open speculation.

When the board of trustees yesterday named Doug Mills permanent athletic director and recommended that he give up his assistant football duties, they ruled out of the picture Zuppke's most likely regarded successor.

* * *

It was known that even Zuppke approved of Mills as the No. 1 coaching choice, if and when he decided to step out. He resigned Monday night.

* * *

Now the field is wide open, but already full of conjecture and possibilities.

* * *

Among those already mentioned in football circles were such former Illini stars as Burt Ingwersen, now line coach at Northwestern, Don Peden, coach at Ohio university, and Carl Voyles, coach at William and Mary.

* * *

Others included Don Faurot of Missouri and Charlie Bowser of Pittsburgh.

However, Chester R. Davis, chairman of the trustee's committee on athletics, said "We'll take our time and canvass the entire field. Whoever we get will be one who can be depended upon to preserve the Illinois spirit. We're not going to go in to any professionalism."

Baker-Windsor Again Lead Loop

Margaret Baker and Bud Windsor once more paced the mixed doubles bowling league with a 1011 total last night at Colony alleys, but they dropped the first game to the Lewis-Harney combination by one pin.

Windsor led the league with a 553 total and Mary McMullen had high score of 515 for the women.

THEATERS

Laugh Special.

W. C. Fields, famous laugh-maker of stage and screen, returns to the Ohio Thanksgiving day for a two-day appearance in his latest film comedy, "Never Give a Sucker An Even Break." Purporting to be an inside picture of the film industry the comedy presents Fields as none other than himself and gives him Leon Errol, a stage companion of Zeigfeld "Follies" days as a foil for his wisecracks. Fields wrote the play and has in the supporting cast Susan Miller, Gloria Jean, and Franklin Pangborn.

Convention Comedy.

"Three Girls About Town," the Thanksgiving day feature at the Madison, has Joan Blondell, Binnie Barnes and Janet Blair as a trio of giddy convention hostesses in a hotel operated by Robert Benchley. Cast as sisters, Faith, Hope and Charity, the trio takes the audience behind scenes to a strike conference, a morticians' conclave and a "murder" investigation. John Howard furnishes the romantic interest and the cast includes Eric Blore and Una O'Connor. A mystery thriller, "Ellery Queen Murder Ring," featuring Ralph Bellamy and Margaret Lindsay is the second attraction.

* * *

Ozzie Nelson.

"Sweetheart of the Campus," featuring Ruby Keeler and Ozzie Nelson's band including Harriet Hilliard opens today at the Park. Gene Autry's "Under Fiesta Stars," shares the bill.

* * *

Benny Comedy.

Jack Benny masquerades in the frills and flounces of a frivolous old lady in "Charley's Aunt," opening a three-day showing at the Ritz, Thursday. The picture has an English setting and is an adaption of the comedy that has been popular on the stage for years. Jack Randall in "Land of Six Guns," is the second feature.

* * *

Marx Farce.

The Marx brothers make life in a department store even more hectic than usual in "The Big Store," showing Thanksgiving day only at the Majestic. In the roles of private detectives they attempt to prevent the murder of Tony Martin, the store owner, and in the meantime become involved with Marion Martin, Virginia Grey and other lush beauties. The climax is effected on skates with the trio rolling madly through the store while the villian pursues. George Houston in "Frontier Scout," is the second picture.

WILSON LIFTS FEATHER BOX TITLE FROM LEMOS

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson, a boxing cutie who picked up quite a few tricks in 10 years of knocking out, and being knocked out, is new featherweight champion of the National Boxing association.

Wilson—not to be confused with Welterweight Jackie Wilson of Los Angeles and Cleveland—decisively outpointed Richie Lemos, Los Angeles Mexican, in 12 rounds at Olympic auditorium last night. It was Lemos' first defense of the title he lifted from Petey Scalzo last summer. The new champ weighed 125½, Lemos 125¾. A capacity crowd of 9,000 saw the show.

GIFFIN LOSES CAGE TILT TO ANDERSON COLLEGE

ANDERSON, Ind.—(AP)—Anderson college beat Giffin college of Van Wert, 37 to 21, last night in a homecoming basketball game.

Anderson scored nine points before Giffin got one; led, 23 to 8, at half time, and was ahead, 36 to 13, with a quarter to play. Anderson's Guard Richardson made 14 points.

OHIOAN LOSES BOUT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Marinelli of Dayton lost a close decision in the Coliseum last night to Al Reid of New York in a rough eight-round bout. Marinelli weighed 128, Reid 127½. Reid hit Referee Young Otto on the chin with a wild swing in the third.

FIREMAN BLUSHED

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(U.P.)—Sometimes it is not the heat of the blaze that makes a fireman's face red. The other day, firemen were called to a local hotel to extinguish a burning mattress and pillow. On the bed was a woman, in night attire. The fireman blushed, sprinkled water on the bed and left.

CURIOSITY KILLED CAT

LIGHT SELLING SENDS STOCKS FADING LOWER

Captive Coal Mine Strike Proves Major Handicap To Speculators.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks continued to move hesitantly today with a shading toward slightly lower levels in many leaders.

Selling was not active enough to involve more than minor losses in the declining groups and there plus signs were established near the second hour. Transactions were light.

Remaining as a major handicap to speculative operations was the captive coal mine strike which was reported to have resulted in a suspension of operations at a widening number of commercial mines in Pennsylvania.

Holders of shares of building material companies studied Engineering News-Record's report for the past week, which, giving effect to the Thanksgiving holiday influence, disclosed construction awards 14 per cent down from the 1940 corresponding period at $63,100,00. Private awards were 7 per cent higher than a year ago but public building was 19 per cent lower.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Daughter Born—Word was received here today of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Landis, Lansing, Mich. . Both are former Mansfielders.

Enrolls In Navy—Bernard Yoakum, 495 Cline avenue, was accepted in the U. S. naval reserve for training in the storekeeper's school yesterday in Cincinnati.

One Fails Exam.—The state highway patrol reported today that out of 11 applicants for drivers' licenses at the Mansfield substation, only one failed to pass state requirements.

Services Tomorrow — Special evangelistic services will be conducted at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow in Gospel hall, 254 North Mulberry street, by Andrew Craig, Providence, R. I.

Y. M. C. A. To Close—Donald Cram, Y. M. C. A. physical director announced today that the Y. M. C. A. would be closed all day tomorrow in observance of Thanksgiving.

Special Communion—Rev. G. F. Lewis, rector of Grace Episcopal church, announced today that there would be a special Thanksgiving celebration of Holy Communion at 10 a. m., tomorrow in the chapel.

Reports Vandalism—Joe Berger, Mansfield, R. D. 3, reported to Mansfield police yesterday that vandals had cut the windshield wiper and body of his automobile while it was parked on Elm street. Berger estimated his damage at about $15.

Grants Judgment—Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday granted a judgment of $870 to Paul H. Brown, Texas attorney, for legal services given Paul and Leah Maxwell, West Second street. Brown contended that the couple owed him the money for various legal services performed in 1938.

J. A. C. To Inspect Camp—After a short business meeting in the Senior Chamber club rooms at 8 p. m. today, the Junior Association of Commerce will make a tour of inspection through the Charles Mill N. Y. A. resident center, Peter Schadek, secretary announced today.

Lexington Churches To Unite—Lexington churches will unite for a common observance of Thanksgiving day at 9:30 a. m. Thursday at the Lexington Church of Christ, with services in charge of Rev. J. W. Mellick, pastor. Rev. G. M. Saunder, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will be the speaker.

Fine Nankin Man—Herman S. Bally, Nankin, was fined $10 and costs yesterday in Municipal court after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. Bally was arrested by state highway patrolmen who claimed that he was speeding on U. S. Route 42, north of the city.

Quiz Four Youths — Mansfield police are questioning four Mansfield youths who were taken into custody last night while attempting to break into the Morris Post market on East Fourth street. The youths, two 17-year-olds, one 15 and the other 16 were apprehended when a resident in the neighborhood heard them in the rear of the market and called police.

Timely Announcements

The most confusing element, taxes, can be eliminated from your investment calculations if you buy discount bonds as represented in portfolios of Keystone Bond Funds B-3 or B-4. Yields of 8.1% and 8.8% are reasonably dependable, regardless of Federal taxes. Offered only by prospectus. Livingston, Williams & Co., O. P. S. Bldg. 4171-6.

We are not thankful because we are in the midst of war, though this is no fault of yours or mine.

However, we are thankful to be living in the fine, clean city of Mansfield and feel sure all city and county officials as well as the News-Journal join to make and keep Mansfield a city we'll always be proud of.

We hope and trust that when the boys (now serving our country and flag, who have held up their right hand to God — to obey and uphold our Constitution) . . . when these boys return, it's a day of quiet, unaffected thanks to a very real God for very real blessings.

FREE! TRAINING that is worth $1500.00

READ HOW YOU TOO CAN BECOME AN EXPERT IN AVIATION, RADIO OR ENGINEERING AND DRAW GOOD PAY WHILE YOU LEARN!

IF YOU WANT to get ahead fast, to serve your country, to build yourself a good-paying future: : : here's the opportunity you've been waiting for.

The U. S. Navy may train you to become an expert in any one of nearly 50 skilled fields. Each month, over 5000 new men will be sent to a Navy Service School, where you can learn to be a Diesel engine operator, machinist, aviation mechanic, aerial photographer, radio operator, or whatever specialized work you're best fitted for. This first year's training which you get is worth at least $1500.

The Navy foots the entire bill. You earn while you learn. In fact, it is possible for an enlisted man to earn up to $126 per month—with keep.

You'll have plenty of opportunity for advancement in position and pay—and you'll have fun while you learn! You'll come out of the Navy fully prepared to take on a good job in private industry. And if you want to stay in the Service, you can go right to the top . . . and retire at the end of 20 years or 30 years with a liberal monthly income.

You can choose now between the regulars or the reserves. Both offer equal opportunities for advancement.

LOOK WHAT THE U. S. NAVY AND NAVAL RESERVE OFFER YOU

FREE TRAINING worth $1500. Nearly 50 trades and vocations to choose from.

GOOD PAY with regular increases. You may earn up to $126 a month. You are entitled to a generous vacation period, with full pay, each year.

GOOD FOOD and plenty of it.

FREE CLOTHING. A complete outfit of clothing when you first enlist. (Over $100 worth.)

FREE MEDICAL CARE, including regular dental attention.

FINEST SPORTS and entertainment any man could ask for.

TRAVEL, ADVENTURE, THRILLS—You can't beat the Navy for them!

BECOME AN OFFICER. Many can work for an appointment to the Naval Academy or the Annapolis of the Air at Pensacola.

FUTURE SUCCESS. It's easy for Navy-trained men to get good-paying jobs in civil life.

LIBERAL RETIREMENT-PAY for regular Navy men.

Get this FREE Booklet

Mail coupon for your free copy of "Life in the U.S. Navy." 24 pages, fully illustrated. It answers all your questions. Tells what your pay will be . . . promotions and vacations you can expect . . . how you can retire on a life income. Describes how you can learn any one of 45 big-pay trades from aviation to radio . . . how many may become officers. 27 scenes from Navy life showing sports and games you may play, ships you may be assigned to, exciting ports you may visit. Tells enlistment requirements and where to apply. If you are between 17 and 31 (no high school required), get this free book now. No obligation. Ask the Navy editor of this paper for a copy. Or telephone him. Or mail him the coupon. You can paste it on a penny postal card.

WEAR THIS BADGE OF HONOR! If after reading the free booklet you decide to apply for a place in the Navy, you will receive this smart lapel-emblem. It is a badge of honor you will be proud to wear.

ENROLL IN THE NAVAL RESERVE ...BE RELEASED AFTER THE EMERGENCY

The Secretary of the Navy has announced:—"All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active Navy duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."

Remember — the regular Navy and Naval Reserve offer you the same travel, training, promotions, pay increases. Physical requirements in the Naval Reserve are more liberal. Send coupon!

SERVE YOUR COUNTRY ★ BUILD YOUR FUTURE

Tear out and take or send this coupon to the Navy Editor of this newspaper As

Without any obligation on my part whatsoever, please send me free booklet, "Life in the Navy," giving full details about the opportunities for men in the Navy or Naval Reserve.
